Circleville's Annual Yule Decoration Plan Starts

The annual job of decorating Circleville's downtown district for Christmas started on schedule Wednesday morning.

City service department employees along with Chamber of Commerce members began distribution of Christmas trees and tree holders to merchants.

Each merchant will receive an individual tree, along with lights and a tree holder. Decoration of the trees will be left up to each merchant, who must also provide a means of getting electricity to tree lights.

As one crew placed metal posts in front of each business establishment Wednesday morning, another crew of workers placed a tree atop the post holder.

Three truckloads of Christmas trees arrived in Circleville late Tuesday from Southern Ohio, and were placed in a lot at Court and Main streets, from where they are being distributed.

Plans call for elaborate decorations at the Court and Main intersection, which will tie in with merchants' decorations along the two streets.

Council Passes Four Ordinances, Adds Housing Addition To City

Circleville city council Tuesday night accepted and approved four ordinances, one of which gave the corporation a new city addition.

Councilmen also learned that about $48,000 will be received from the county next year, following an earlier meeting with Pickaway County Budget Commission.

In submitting a financial report for the lawmakers' approval, Councilman George Crites said that the amount would be received, but that the county had promised more through sales tax and intangible tax receipts.

Reduction of the city tax rate for the coming year will bring less money into city coffers.

"This, plus any proposed salary increases for city employees," Crites said, "would make the city come out a little short."

Big Bus Plows Into Marching Boys, Killing 23

CHATHAM, Eng., Dec. 5—An eight-ton double-decker bus, operated by a driver cited for a quarter century of safe driving, rumbled into the singing ranks of marching boy cadets last night and killed 23 of them.

Nineteen more boys, some near death, lay in hospitals. Ten others were treated for shock.

It was the worst road accident in British motoring history.

The driver, John George Samson, 57, was taken home and put under a doctor's care. Shocked and sick, Samson was unable to explain immediately how the big bus happened to hit the formation of more than 50 marching boys. It smashed into them from behind.

The children, all between 10 and 13 years old, were cadets in the Royal Marine Corps. They sang in step as they marched—their twin files just the width of the bus—to an amateur boxing match at Chatham's naval barracks.

Passengers on the bus, riding home in the supertime rush hour darkness, didn't know what was happening until it was all over.

Mangled bodies were strewn for 50 yards along the cobblestone road. The huge vehicle lurched through almost the whole formation and careened into a lamp post, its fenders bent and bloody.

CHILLICOTHE, Dec. 5—A Hillsboro couple, Vickers Wetherholt, 60, and his wife, 63, was killed Tuesday when their car hit a utility pole seven miles west of here.

Gamblers Are Sought

Too Few Federal Tax Stamps Issued

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Treasury agents are ready today to crack down on an estimated 7,000 suspected gamblers who failed to pay the $50 federal gambling tax.

The Internal Revenue Bureau has issued 1,556 stamps since the levy became effective Nov. 1. Some 4,266 other applications are still being processed.

Officials, however, estimated that there are 13,000 gamblers in the U.S. and all who wished to operate legally were required to pay the tax before Dec. 1.

With preliminary returns reported, the bureau plans to give local police the names of gamblers who have registered. Local police, in turn, will provide the bureau with the names of gamblers or suspects who have not paid the tax.

A SURVEY SHOWED that Wisconsin and Illinois topped the list of applications. The Illinois tax collector's office received 1,472 requests, granted 103, rejected 754, and is processing 615.

In Washington, gamblers asked for 1,412 tax forms and received 210 stamps. Officials turned down 210 and continued to study 956 applications.

Not a single stamp was requested in Iowa, Maine, New Mexico, Vermont and New York City's Lower Manhattan area.

In Nevada, where gambling is legal, only 33 stamps were requested, 19 were issued, and eight are being processed.

NPA Removes Threat Of U.S. Tire Shortage

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—The National Production Authority today removed all threats of shortage of automobile tires in the coming months.

NPA announced that beginning Jan. 1 the nation's manufacturers may produce almost unlimited quantities of tires and tubes as long as they use a slightly higher amount of synthetic rubber.

The government's new rubber policy also applies to some 50,000 other rubber products manufactured in this country but the agency had a stern word of warning to industry.

It said manufacturers must not use more than 105,000 tons of natural rubber imported by the General Services Administration during the first three months of 1952 or controls will be reimposed.

NPA also declared that it will not remove its ban on white sidewall tires and it made clear that rigid specifications on all products—requiring greater use of synthetic rubber—would remain in effect.

The virtual removal of controls came as a result of the greatly improved rubber picture. Synthetic output is increasing steadily and the supply of natural rubber appears to be adequate.

Bridges Slated For GOP Post

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Senate GOP leaders reportedly have agreed on Sen. Bridges, N.H., as their new floor leader.

A Republican Senator, who declined to be quoted, said Bridges has consented to take the post in an effort to avoid any sectional fights involving Presidential candidates.

Bridges, who would succeed the late Sen. Wherry, Nebraska, has not announced his support for any Presidential aspirant.

Hope For Yuletide Peace In Korea War Grows Dim

MUNSAN, Dec. 5—Hope of a Yuletide peace in Korea dimmed today when the Reds delivered a take-it-or-leave-it statement on their truce enforcement proposal which the Allies described as doubletalk.

A United Nations spokesman revealed tonight that Communist negotiators had insisted their plan for policing the projected armistice be accepted or rejected in toto by the Allies.

They refused to bargain on details despite the fact the UN delegates still were not clear on what the Reds meant by using such terms as "ports of entry" in defining areas where inspection teams would be permitted to work.

The Communists took this uncompromising stand at a subcommittee session in Panmunjom where two UN and two Red delegates wrangled for two hours and 35 minutes.

THE JOINT four-man body met from 1 to 3:35 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Another meeting was set for 11 o'clock Thursday morning (9 p. m. Wednesday EST) for a further effort to meet the Dec. 27 deadline for conclusion of an armistice along a cease-fire line already agreed upon.

A Wednesday night Allied communiqué said the Reds had acknowledged that UN members who had not sent troops to Korea would qualify as "neutral nations" from whom armistice enforcement observers might be enlisted.

As examples, the Reds cited

Czechoslovakia and Poland, both of which are Communist-governed Iron Curtain countries. They also conceded that Sweden and Denmark "could be considered neutral" despite their contributions of hospital units to the Allied forces in Korea.

The Red negotiators admitted also that Switzerland is neutral in the Korean war. These were "merely examples—not proposals."

Regarding their truce enforcement plan the Reds had dispatched to the Allies a "clarifying" note which failed to clarify their terms.

UN efforts at the day's session failed to get clear-cut definitions. Before the start of Wednesday's meeting, the Reds sent a written reply to 18 UN questions seeking clarification of Monday's Communist proposal on truce supervision.

The North Korean Chinese note reiterated Red opposition to inspection of the rear land areas of either side—even by "neutral observers."

The Communists want such inspection to be limited to what they term "ports of entry."

The Reds also insisted that selection of armistice observers from "neutral" nations be deferred until agreement is reached on an agenda item which deals with the setting up of a joint UN-Communist truce enforcement commission.

Then, the Communists added in their note, the "neutral" observers should be selected and immediately invited to come to war-torn Korea.

Kefauver Gives Reply To Talk By MacArthur

SEATTLE, Dec. 5—In a speech billed as a "reply" to General MacArthur, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee declared last night a strong United Nations is the world's "only real chance of preserving peace."

"The only way to win World War III," he added, "is to prevent it."

The crime-investigating Democratic senator addressed the Western Washington Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner.

Turning to the domestic front, he warned against the danger of "the growth of crime and corruption," and asserted "honesty in government is certainly not the monopoly of any political party."

Democratic Party leaders had listed the speech as a reply to MacArthur's bitter denunciation of Truman administration policies in his Nov. 13 address at the opening of Seattle's centennial celebration.

MacArthur declared the administration's foreign and domestic policies are leading the country toward a third world war and financial ruin.

Kefauver, however, praised the administration's policies in the Korean crisis. He declared: "It is of overriding importance for all of us to look at the facts, instead of being misled by the loose attacks of defeatists and Monday morning quarterbacks, even though they may wear five stars upon their shoulders."

He berated some of his fellow congressmen with the challenge: "The men who carp about a 'useless war' in Korea are the same men who shouted approval when President Truman bravely asked the United Nations to intervene in June of last year. But when the battle turns, when the going gets tough, they show their true colors."

CAIRO, Dec. 5—Thirty-five Egyptians were wounded in fresh rioting Wednesday despite a state of emergency invoked following two days of anti-British fighting that killed approximately 50 persons.

Thirty workers and students and five Egyptian policemen were wounded in the Bulak district on the East bank of the Nile when the police suppressed another anti-British demonstration.

Police said they were forced to fire on a crowd protesting Egyptian casualties in the Suez Canal Zone fight with the British.

10,000 Filipinos Evacuated After Mountain Rumbles, Roars

MANILA, Dec. 5—More than 500 bodies had been recovered from the ash-strewn slopes of Hibokhibok volcano on Camiguin island in the Southern Philippines.

The volcano erupted twice Tuesday. It still spouted smoke and flames Wednesday.

Gov. Paciencia Ysalina of Eastern Misamis province, who came from nearby Mindanao island to take charge of rescue and evacuation, estimated that 2,000 may have died in the first eruption, which witnesses have called an atomic-like blast.

A Red Cross director of disaster relief, Dr. Joaquin Canuto, radioed headquarters that the dead were being cremated or buried as fast as they were found.

Volcanic heat began subsiding and rescue workers were able to penetrate deeper into the ash and lava areas.

The Philippine News Service said 10,000 of Camiguin's 45,000 residents had been evacuated to safer areas.

THE VOLCANO issued a second mighty blast about 10 hours after the first blowoff.

Flames and dense smoke still are pouring from the crater, the Philippines army commander in the Mindanao area reported after a flight over the island. Lt. Col. Patricio Monzon said:

"It was so warm I couldn't get my plane close enough for a good look."

"Camiguin looked like a burning, smoking aircraft carrier as we hovered above it. Smoke billowed up to 7,000 feet and enveloped the whole island."

2 Drunk Drivers Lose Rights In County Hearing

Two out-of-town men lost their driving rights for one year each Wednesday after appearing in Pickaway County common pleas court for drunken driving.

They were Forrest W. Cash, 31, of Washington C. H. and Sanford Dearth, 50, of Clyde.

Dearth was fined $25 and costs, sentenced to 30 days in jail and had his license suspended for one year when appearing before the court.

The court later suspended the jail sentence in favor of probation.

Cash was fined $10 and costs, sentenced to 30 days in jail and had his license suspended for one year. His jail sentence also was suspended in favor of probation.

Dearth was arrested late Monday by Deputy Jack Dewey following an accident involving Dearth's auto and a tandem semi-trailer outfit on Route 104. Cash was arrested last weekend by Marshal Wilbur Frazier in New Holland.

Both men appeared before Judge William D. Radcliff Wednesday on affidavits presented by Prosecutor Guy Cline.

Freight Ship Blows Up In Bay

SANDUSKY, Dec. 5—A 50-foot long freight ship blew up in Sandusky Bay today, rocking the city of Sandusky and causing persons to flee from their homes and from downtown business places.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Acting Secretary of State Webb said today the U. S. has protested to Hungary because that country detained four American fliers downed in its territory for two weeks without informing the outside world.

Webb said the U. S. has not decided whether to protest to Russia, whose fighter planes forced the missing C-47 to the ground in Hungary.

Camiguin is 13 miles long and nine miles wide. Hibokhibok, 5,620 feet high, is virtually in its center.

Yugoslavia Gives Stepinac Release But On Condition

BELGRADE, Dec. 5—Roman Catholic Archbishop Aloisius Stepinac, first prominent church leader imprisoned in a Communist state since the war, was released conditionally today by the Yugoslav government.

An official announcement said that the 53-year-old archbishop was released from Lepoglava prison and will reside in his native town, Krasic, near Zagreb, Croatian capital.

The conditions on his release were not given, but it was believed that he must remain within the boundaries of the town where he was born and will not be allowed to resume his high church office.

The announcement said that the decision to release Stepinac was taken by Croatian Interior Minister Ivan Krajcic.

The conditional release was based on a provision in the law of "punitive security and education-correction measures."

Marshal Tito, leader of the dissident Communist nation which broke with Moscow after the archbishop's trial and conviction on "collaboration" charges, previously had promised early release of the former Catholic primate.

The archbishop had been in prison a little more than five years and two months. He had been sentenced to a 16-year term.

Transatlantic Airlines Set 'Tourist' Fares

NICE, Dec. 5—Transatlantic airlines, which reached agreement on "tourist class" fares as low as $417 for a round-trip, have entered a race to see which would be first in the new field.

After seven days of wrangling, the International Air Transport Association agreed Tuesday to a $417 round-trip fare between New York and London from November to March. The same trip in other months would be $486.

Off-season one-way fare would be $270.

Although the agreements must be ratified by the respective governments, Pan-American World Airways, which led the fight for still lower fares, announced that it will operate four round trips weekly starting in May. Trans World Airlines will start operations at the same time.

Pan-American said it would use DC-6Bs for the tourist traffic capable of carrying 82 passengers.

The new tourist flights will eliminate many of the "frills" on first-class service, such as free meals.

Prices Going Up Again—DiSalle

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Price Stabilizer DiSalle declared Wednesday that prices have begun to climb again and said it would be dangerous to decontrol any major segment of the economy at this time.

DiSalle's remarks were contained in a memorandum he sent to the Joint Congressional Committee on Defense Production. He was questioned by the committee recently on proposals to roll back price ceilings of various commodities and asked whether he planned to decontrol goods selling below ceiling.

Monty Lambert, chairman of the special decorations committee, said Wednesday that he had ordered about 135 trees, enough to fully decorate the district.

A huge 30 to 40 foot community tree, to be placed in front of Pickaway Courthouse, had not yet arrived.

Also in front of the courthouse will be a religious scene, depicting some phase of the birth of Christ. Meanwhile, plans for a Christmas program, in the downtown district are being completed by the committee.

Tentative arrangements call for carol singing in front of the courthouse on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights of the week prior to Christmas Day.

A brief community program will also be held on Sunday night. Santa Claus will be on hand to bring treats to Circleville youngsters.

No special program is planned for Monday, Dec. 24, Christmas eve.

After seven days of wrangling, the International Air Transport Association agreed Tuesday to a $417 round-trip fare between New York and London from November to March. The same trip in other months would be $486.

Off-season "one-way fare would be $270.

Although the agreements must be ratified by the respective governments, Pan-American World Airways, which led the fight for still lower fares, announced that it will operate four round trips weekly starting in May. Trans-World Airlines will start operations at the same time.

Pan-American said it would use DC-6Bs for the tourist traffic capable of carrying 82 passengers.

The new tourist flights will eliminate many of the "frills" on first-class service, such as free meals.

Prices Going Up Again—DiSalle

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Price Stabilizer DiSalle declared Wednesday that prices have begun to climb again and said it would be dangerous to decontrol any major segment of the economy at this time.

DiSalle's remarks were contained in a memorandum he sent to the Joint Congressional Committee on Defense Production. He was questioned by the committee recently on proposals to roll back price ceilings of various commodities and asked whether he planned to decontrol goods selling below ceiling.

Big Bus Plows Into Marching Boys, Killing 23

CHATHAM, Eng., Dec. 5—An eight-ton double-decker bus, operated by a driver cited for a quarter century of safe driving, rumbled into the singing ranks of marching boy cadets last night and killed 23 of them.

Nineteen more boys, some near death, lay in hospitals. Ten others were treated for shock.

It was the worst road accident in British motoring history.

The driver, John George Samson, 57, was taken home and put under a doctor's care. Shocked and sick, Samson was unable to explain immediately how the big bus happened to hit the formation of more than 50 marching boys. It smashed into them from behind.

The children, all between 10 and 13 years old, were cadets in the Royal Marine Corps. They sang in step as they marched—their twin fists just the width of the bus—to an amateur boxing match at Chatham's naval barracks.

Passengers on the bus, riding home in the supertime rush hour darkness, didn't know what was happening until it was all over.

Mangled bodies were strewn for 50 yards along the cobblestone road. The huge vehicle lurched through almost the whole formation and careened into a lamp post, its fenders bent and bloody.

GI Swaps $20 For $1,000

LOUISVILLE, Dec. 5—A Lima, O., soldier swapped $1,000 for $20 over the weekend and figured he made a good deal.

Pvt. John B. Finn, 21, found a wallet with $1,000 in it at Fort Knox, where he is stationed. Papers indicated it belonged to Cpl. Orville Howard, 44, Wallins Creek, Ky., a Korean War veteran.

Finn, a troop information instructor, hunted up Howard and returned the money, and, in return, received $20 for "a Christmas present."

Finn was happy, too. He's been "broke" for three weeks.

Couple Killed

CHILLICOTHE, Dec. 5—A Hillsboro couple, Vickers Wetherholt, 60, and his wife, 63, was killed Tuesday when their car hit a utility pole seven miles west of here.

All She Wants Is Baby Gorilla

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—A local little girl, whose letter was intercepted by the New York postmaster, wrote:

"Santa Claus
"North Pole
"Dear Santa:

"I'd like more than anything in the world a baby gorilla. I love you. I don't want anything at all if I can't have a baby gorilla."

"Your niece

Did You Lose Your Choppers?

Anyone lose a set of choppers? Then contact the Circleville police department which has a brand new set of false teeth.

The set, both uppers and lowers, was found Monday by Dave Fouch, laundry truck driver, lying in an alley near the Kochheiser hardware store on West Main street.

Mainly About People

ONE MINUTE PULPIT
The commonplaces of life are filled with danger to life and limb, but our souls are at hazard too. Life is too precious to be thrown away needlessly. He that cleaveth wood is endangered thereby. — Eccl. 10:9.

Robert Houser, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Houser of Chillicothe, underwent a tonsillectomy in Berger hospital Wednesday morning.

New Tax Rates Established In 13 More Areas

Pickaway County Budget Commission established new tax rates for 13 more districts in the county Tuesday during its meeting in Pickaway Courthouse.

The panel earlier Tuesday had established new tax rates for Circleville and Circleville Township.

Its rates for the city for the ensuing year were set at 22.80 mills, two-tenths of a mill less than last year's 23-mill rate; and its rates for the township were set at 13.15 mills, an increase of 2.15 over the 11 mills established last year.

To all districts of the county the budget commission is adding a compulsory two-tenths mill increase, designed for retirement of World War II bonus bonds.

DISTRICTS other than Circleville and Circleville Township for which new rates were established Tuesday and early Wednesday are:

Darby Township, new tax rate of 18.40 mills, increase of six-tenths of a mill over last year's 17.80 rate due to state tax and four-tenths mill increase to trustees;

Harrisburg, new tax rate of 15.40 mills, decrease of 2.80 mills from last year's 18.20 due to decrease in Harrisburg school rates;

Harrisburg Corporation, new tax rate of 20.60 mills, decrease of 4.60 mills from last year's 25.20 due to decrease in Harrisburg school rates;

Deercreek Township, new tax rate of 19.40 mills, increase of 2.40 mills over last year's rate of 17 mills, due to new school tax;

Williamsport corporation, new tax rate of 22.40 mills, increase of 2.20 mills due to new school tax;

Harrison Township, new tax rate of 10 mills, increase of two-tenths mills over last year's 9.80 due to state tax;

South Bloomfield, new tax rate of 12 mills, increase of two-tenths mills due to state tax;

Jackson Township, new tax rate of 15.50 mills, increase of one-tenth mill over last year's 15.40 rate, due to state tax and decrease of one-tenth mill from fund;

Deercreek school district in Jackson Township, new tax rate of 19.70 mills, increase of 2.20 mills over last year's 17.50 due to Deercreek school levy;

Madison Township, new tax rate of 14.50 mills, increase of two-tenths mills due to state tax;

Harrison school district in Madison Township, new tax rate of 11.20 mills, increase of two-tenths mills due to state tax.

DEATHS and Funerals

MRS. MAX FIGLESTAHLE
Mrs. Emma Figlesthale, 81, of Columbus, former Pickaway County resident, died Tuesday at the home of her son, Joseph, of 365 South Terrace avenue.

Widow of Max J. Figlesthale, she is survived by the son, and two daughters, Mrs. Harry Hetterscheidt and Mrs. Mary Truner, also of Columbus.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Friday from St. Mary Magdalen church, Columbus, with burial in St. Joseph cemetery, Shadeville.

Friends may call at the son's residence, 365 Terrace avenue, after 6 p. m. Wednesday.

2 Men Assessed Total Of $48.10 In Traffic Cases

Two men were assessed a total of $48.10 in fines and costs in mayor's court Tuesday night for driving violations.

Jack Rupert, 49, of Columbus, was fined $10 and $4.70 in costs on accusation that he operated an auto with no valid driver's license, and the same amount for reckless driving, following an accident just north of Little Walnut on U.S. 23 on Oct. 20.

His auto swerved to the wrong side of the road and overturned. Rupert has remained in Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, because of injuries sustained in the accident.

Another driver, Edson Hixenbaugh, 57, of 319 East Corwin street, was fined $10 and $8.70 in costs on accusation that he failed to give proper signal of intention to turn.

He was involved in an accident Saturday on North Court street when he attempted to make a left hand turn onto Park place. His truck was struck by auto going South on Court street. An Atlanta woman, passenger in the car, was injured.

Cosmic Oddity Is Reported By Atom Scientist

UPTON, N. Y., Dec. 5.—The discovery of a cosmic oddity, an atom without a nucleus, has been reported at the Brookhaven National Laboratory of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Prof. Martin Deutsch, 34-year-old physicist of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology who discovered the new element, told a symposium at Brookhaven that it is nearly one-thousandth the mass of the hydrogen atom. The hydrogen atom is the lightest of all the previously known atoms.

Professor Deutsch named the new atom "positronium" and said it is composed of just one positive and one negative electron revolving around each other in the manner of twin stars.

He said he located "positronium" in cosmic radiations.

Tornado Hits New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5.—A freakish tornado ripped through the New Orleans uptown industrial section Wednesday and caused damages estimated at more than $1 million, but no one was reported injured.

Tornadoes are extremely rare in this area often frequented by hurricanes. The U.S. Weather Bureau said the tornado was about 600 feet wide and 1200 feet long, lasted five minutes.

Korea Veteran Hurt Near Home

CHILLICOTHE. — Carl Wiseman, 20, home on leave from the U. S. Navy where he served in Korea, was hit in the left shoulder by a stray bullet while hunting near here Wednesday.

He was taken to Columbus from where he was to be flown to Philadelphia to a U. S. naval hospital.

School Board Discusses New Lunchroom Setup

Circleville board of education devoted its meeting Tuesday night to discussion of its proposed new school lunchroom program.

Three women were guests of the panel during its cafeteria talk, invited to the session by the board to give advice.

Attending the session were Mrs. Alfred Gabriel, Circleville home economics teacher; Mrs. Ralph Hall, cafeteria manager in Pickaway Township school; and Mrs. G. D. Phillips of Circleville, former home economics teacher and cafeteria aide.

The women and the board made a tour of the proposed cafeteria setup in the basement of the Corwin street building, then returned to the board room for a discussion.

Arising from the discussion period was the fact that the board's first move should be to procure a manager for its lunchroom setup.

According to offhand estimates made by the board, the cafeteria is expected to be used by about half of the school's 1,100 pupils, meaning a fulltime job for a manager in administration alone.

The board agreed to seek capable applicants for the post and report back during its Dec. 18 session.

Meanwhile, a salesman attended Tuesday's session to demonstrate eating utensils for the lunchroom, along with describing folding tables and chairs.

The salesman demonstrated plastic dishes and soup bowls, plastic trays and stainless steel hardware. No action was taken by the board.

Ohio's Anti-Slots Law Upheld By Urbana Judge

URBANA, Dec. 5.—Ohio's new anti-slot machine law has passed its first court test on its constitutionality.

In a seven-page decision, Judge Arthur D. Tudor of Hardin County has nullified a temporary court injunction protecting Albert L. Dodson of Urbana from arrest.

Judge Tudor also denied a permanent injunction and declared the possession of slot machines illegal.

In his decision filed in Champaign County common pleas court, he said there is no doubt that slot machines are gambling devices and have no property rights in them.

The judge asserted that the state law will oppress "only a small but vulnerable body of parasites."

The law makes it a felony to possess, own or transport slot machines. That could mean a penitentiary sentence.

Dodson, who operates the United Amusement Co. in Urbana, said he is the owner of $10,000 worth of slot machines. He obtained an injunction against the sheriff of Champaign County, the city of Urbana and the department of liquor control of Ohio.

Attorney Gen. C. William O'Neill immediately filed a motion to dismiss the injunction to obtain a quick test of the law's validity.

Paternalty Bloc-1 Tests Refused

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5.—The Ohio supreme court has sent a paternity suit back to the Hamilton County courts with instructions to disregard the results of an inconclusive blood test.

The high court held that evidence of blood grouping tests were admissible only when the results establish non-paternity and that, where the tests showed a mere possibility of parentage the admission of such evidence is prejudicially erroneous.

Jury Decides Bolding Guilty

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5.—A common pleas court jury today found 18-year-old Kenneth Bolding guilty of first-degree murder, but recommended mercy.

That makes a life sentence mandatory for the Columbus youth, who was convicted of killing Virginia Bates, a Columbus hotel caterer, Dec. 4, 1950.

Adelphi Driver Hurt In Crash Through Fence

Perry Ellsworth Jenkins, 28, of Adelphi, suffered left leg injuries at 5:15 p. m. Tuesday when his car failed to make a curve on the Adelphi-Stringtown road, crashed into a ditch and through a fence.

Deputy Sheriff John White said that Jenkins, who was driving south on Route 56 near Stringtown, failed to make a curve and lost control of his auto, which skidded across the road into a ditch.

The auto ran through a fence on the Herschell Armstrong farm, continued for 100 feet in a field and then ran into the fence again, tearing down five posts and damaging nine rods of fence.

Jenkins was fined $25 and $12.37 in costs in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root Tuesday night on accusation of reckless operation.

The arrest was the first for Deputy White, who joined the sheriff's department Monday after resigning his job as a Circleville patrolman.

Gen. Beightler Pulls A Coolidge

OKINAWA, Dec. 5.—Gen. Robert Beightler, who was proposed as a U.S. presidential candidate without his consent, said today "I am sure that neither Senator Taft nor President Truman is quaking in his boots."

Beightler's name was put in the running by J. Ratliff Yearwood of Georgia.

Saturday, Yearwood said friends of the general had asked him to manage Beightler's campaign.

The general said "the proposal is too fantastic to merit comment from me. However, suffice it to say 'I do not choose to run.'"

4 County Men Signed By Navy

Four Pickaway County men were enlisted into the U.S. Navy recently through the Circleville recruiting office.

They were Mark Wellman, Junior Martin and Bill Weaver, all of Walnut Township, and Wesley Hill of Circleville.

All four have been assigned to "boot" training in the U.S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill.

Two Local Men File Petitions For '52 Primary

Two local men already have taken out petitions seeking nomination for reelection during the 1952 May primary.

Receiving petitions from Pickaway County board of elections this week were Henry T. McCrady, seeking nomination for reelection as county engineer; and Ed Wallace, seeking nomination for reelection as county representative to the state legislature.

The primaries in 1952 will be held May 6, with deadline for filing nominating petitions due in the second week of February.

The 1952 election will be the presidential election, along with state office elections and most of the county offices.

County offices to be involved in the primary election will be coroner, treasurer, sheriff, clerk of courts, prosecuting attorney, recorder, engineer and two county commissioner offices.

State offices to be presented during the primary are governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general, representative and representative at large to Congress, state supreme court, state central committee and representative to general assembly.

Other posts to be sought are county central committeemen, delegate and alternate to the state convention and delegate and alternate from the district to the national convention.

Movie Starlet May Miss Title Of Maharani

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Nancy Valentine, Hollywood starlet who went to India to marry the maharajah of Cooh-Belhar, reportedly will return to the United States single, untitled and disillusioned.

The shapely actress' wedding, according to the London Daily Express, has been cancelled, partly because of her own feelings and partly because of governmental objections.

A Calcutta dispatch to the newspaper said the maharajah returned to Calcutta from three days of interviews with governmental officials in New Delhi to find his fiancée packing for home.

Nancy reportedly does not like the climate, the food or the thought of living in India. She also is said to be rebellious at the thought of substituting a sari for her Western style wardrobe.

The maharajah was said to have been told by government officials that they would grudgingly agree to Nancy becoming a maharani, but he also learned that the New Delhi regime would never become fully reconciled to the match.

Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

When you're invited to your first formal dance, you'll feel a little like Cinderella, stepping out of blue jeans and into a full-length formal evening dress.

But, unlike Cinderella, you won't have a fairy godmother to arrange the big evening for you, so here are some tips to help:

1. Be ready in time to greet your date at the door when he calls for you. Have your lipstick, comb and hanky tucked into your evening bag and your corsage in its box or pinned on your coat, blossoms up, ready to transfer to your dress when you arrive at the dance.
2. Let him hold your coat for you, say goodnight to your parents, and precede him into the car. He'll open the door for you. But he precedes you in getting out of the car, so he can open the door and help you out.
3. If he's a smooth dater, he has arranged to exchange some dances with other couples. If introductions are in order, he's the one to make them. (See our next column for more about introductions.) At the end of the exchanged dance, you and your partner rejoin your date and the other girl.
4. If he suggests a snack after the dance, go easy on his billfold. Let him suggest where to go and what to order. Most boys are relieved when their date orders just a milk shake.
5. If your parents have given you a curfew, it's nothing to be embarrassed about. Tell your date what time you have to be home, so you two can plan accordingly.

2 Persons Hurt In Auto Crash

Two persons were slightly injured early Wednesday morning when an auto struck the underpass at Bell's Siding on U.S. 23.

State Patrolman Clyde Wells said that Harry Whitsell, 37, of Orient Route 1, driver of the car, received face lacerations and skin abrasions. Ada Cremeans, 25, of Ashville, a passenger, suffered face and hand injuries when the southbound auto ran into the railroad underpass. They were treated in Berger hospital.

Draft-Ike Drive Start Nearing

MANCHESTER, N.H., Dec. 5.—A campaign to draft Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for President in 1952 gets officially underway Wednesday night in New Hampshire, where the country's first Presidential primary will be held on March 11.

U.S. Senator James H. Duff, (R) Pennsylvania, will deliver the keynote address at the nation's first Eisenhower dinner, attended by some 300 state Republicans here.

Minnesota holds the second Presidential primary on March 18.

Columbus Raid Nets Nothing

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5.—Sheriff's deputies Tuesday raided a Columbus club which was listed as the address of 14 applicants for federal gambling tax stamps.

Capt. Henry Keeley led the raid on the Abe Lincoln Club on the east side of Columbus. No evidence of gambling was found and no arrests were made, Keeley said.

New Tax Rates Established In 13 More Areas

Pickaway County Budget Commission established new tax rates for 13 more districts in the county Tuesday during its meeting in Pickaway Courthouse.

The panel earlier Tuesday had established new tax rates for Circleville and Circleville Township.

Its rates for the city for the ensuing year were set at 22.80 mills, two-tenths of a mill less than last year's 23-mill rate; and its rates for the township were set at 13.15 mills, an increase of 2.15 over the 11 mills established last year.

To all districts of the county the budget commission is adding a compulsory two-tenths mill increase, designed for retirement of World War II bonus bonds.

DISTRICTS Other than Circleville and Circleville Township for which new rates were established Tuesday and early Wednesday are:

Darby Township, new tax rate of 18.40 mills, increase of six-tenths of a mill over last year's 17.80 rate due to state tax and four-tenths mill increase to trustees;

Harrisburg, new tax rate of 15.40 mills, decrease of 2.80 mills from last year's 18.20 due to decrease in Harrisburg school rates;

Harrisburg Corporation, new tax rate of 20.60 mills, decrease of 4.60 mills from last year's 25.20 due to decrease in Harrisburg school rates;

Deercreek Township, new tax rate of 19.40 mills, increase of 2.40 mills over last year's rate of 17 mills, due to new school tax;

Williamsport corporation, new tax rate of 22.40 mills, increase of 2.20 mills due to new school tax;

Harrison Township, new tax rate of 10 mills, increase of two-tenths mills over last year's 9.80 due to state tax;

ASHVILLE school district, new tax rate of 13 mills, increase of two-tenths mills due to state tax;

Ashtabula corporation, new tax rate of 18.50 mills, increase of one-tenth mill over last year's 18.40 rate, due to state tax and decrease of one-tenth mill from village fund;

South Bloomfield, new tax rate of 12 mills, increase of two-tenths mills due to state tax;

Jackson Township, new tax rate of 15.50 mills, increase of one-tenth mill over last year's 15.40 rate, due to state tax and decrease of one-tenth mill from fund;

Deercreek school district in Jackson Township, new tax rate of 19.70 mills, increase of 2.20 mills over last year's 17.50 due to Deercreek school levy;

Madison Township, new tax rate of 15.40 mills, increase of two-tenths mills due to state tax; and Harrison school district in Madison Township, new tax rate of 11.20 mills, increase of two-tenths mills due to state tax.

State Patrolman Clyde Wells said that Harry Whitsil, 37, of Orient Route 1, driver of the car, received face lacerations and skin abrasions. Ada Cremins, 25, of Ashville, a passenger, suffered face and hand injuries when the south-bound auto ran into the railroad underpass. They were treated in Berger hospital.

Draft-Like Drive Start Nearing

MANCHESTER, N.H., Dec. 5—A campaign to draft Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for President in 1952 gets officially underway Wednesday night in New Hampshire, where the country's first Presidential primary will be held on March 11.

U.S. Senator James H. Duff, (R) Pennsylvania, will deliver the keynote address at the nation's first Eisenhower dinner, attended by some 300 state Republicans here.

Minnesota holds the second Presidential primary on March 18.

DEATHS and Funerals

MRS. MAX FIGLESTABLER
Mrs. Emma Figlestabler, 81, of Columbus, former Pickaway County resident, died Tuesday at the home of her son, Joseph, of 365 South Terrace avenue.

Widow of Max J. Figlestabler, she is survived by the son, and two daughters, Mrs. Harry Hetterscheidt and Mrs. Mary Truner, also of Columbus.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Friday from St. Mary Magdalene church, Columbus, with burial in St. Joseph cemetery, Shadeville.

Friends may call at the son's residence, 365 Terrace avenue, after 6 p. m. Wednesday.

2 Men Assessed Total Of $48.10 In Traffic Cases

Two men were assessed a total of $48.10 in fines and costs in mayor's court Tuesday night for driving violations.

Jack Rupert, 49, of Columbus, was fined $10 and $4.70 in costs on accusation that he operated an auto with no valid driver's license, and the same amount for reckless driving, following an accident just north of Little Walnut on U.S. 23 on Oct. 20.

His auto swerved to the wrong side of the road and overturned. Rupert has remained in Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, because of injuries sustained in the accident.

Another driver, Edson Hixenbaugh, 57, of 319 East Corwin street, was fined $10 and $8.70 in costs on accusation that he failed to give proper signal of intention to turn.

He was involved in an accident Saturday on North Court street when he attempted to make a left hand turn onto Park place. His truck was struck by auto going South on Court street. An Atlanta woman, passenger in the car, was injured.

Cosmic Oddity Is Reported By Atom Scientist

UPTON, N. Y., Dec. 5—The discovery of a cosmic oddity, an atom without a nucleus, has been reported at the Brookhaven National Laboratory of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Prof. Martin Deutsch, 34-year-old physicist of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology who discovered the new element, told a symposium at Brookhaven that it is nearly one-thousandth the mass of the hydrogen atom. The hydrogen atom is the lightest of all the previously known atoms.

Professor Deutsch named the new atom "positronium" and said it is composed of just one positive and one negative electron revolving around each other in the manner of twin stars.

He said he located "positronium" in cosmic radiations.

Tornado Hits New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5—A freakish tornado ripped through the New Orleans uptown industrial section Wednesday and caused damages estimated at more than $1 million, but no one was reported injured.

Tornadoes are extremely rare in this area often frequented by hurricanes. The U.S. Weather Bureau said the tornado was about 600 feet wide and 1200 feet long, lasted five minutes.

Korea Veteran Hurt Near Home

CHILLICOTHE, —Carl Wiseman, 20, home on leave from the U. S. Navy where he served in Korea, was hit in the left shoulder by a stray bullet while hunting near here Wednesday.

He was taken to Columbus from where he was to be flown to Philadelphia to a U. S. naval hospital.

School Board Discusses New Lunchroom Setup

Circleville board of education devoted its meeting Tuesday night to discussion of its proposed new school lunchroom program.

Three women were guests of the panel during its cafeteria talk, invited to the session by the board to give advice.

Attending the session were Mrs. Alfred Gabriel, Circleville home economics teacher; Mrs. Ralph Hall, cafeteria manager in Pickaway Township school; and Mrs. G. D. Phillips of Circleville, former home economics teacher and cafeteria aide.

The women and the board made a tour of the proposed cafeteria setup in the basement of the Corwin street building, then returned to the board room for a discussion.

Arising from the discussion period was the fact that the board's first move should be to procure a manager for its lunchroom setup.

According to offhand estimates made by the board, the cafeteria is expected to be used by about half of the school's 1,100 pupils, meaning a fulltime job for a manager in administration alone.

The board agreed to seek capable applicants for the post and report back during its Dec. 18 session.

Meanwhile, a salesman attended Tuesday's session to demonstrate eating utensils for the lunchroom, along with describing folding tables and chairs.

The salesman demonstrated plastic dishes and soup bowls, plastic trays and stainless steel hardware. No action was taken by the board.

Ohio's Anti-Slots Law Upheld By Urbana Judge

URBANA, Dec. 5—Ohio's new anti-slot machine law has passed its first court test on its constitutionality.

In a seven-page decision, Judge Arthur D. Tudor of Hardin County has nullified a temporary court injunction protecting Albert L. Dodson of Urbana from arrest.

Judge Tudor also denied a permanent injunction and declared the possession of slot machines illegal.

In his decision filed in Champaign County common pleas court, he said there is no doubt that slot machines are gambling devices and have no property rights in them.

The judge asserted that the state law will oppress "only a small but voluble body of parasites."

The law makes it a felony to possess, own or transport slot machines. That could mean a penitentiary sentence.

Dodson, who operates the United Amusement Co. in Urbana, said he is the owner of $10,000 worth of slot machines. He obtained an injunction against the sheriff of Champaign County, the city of Urbana and the department of liquor control of Ohio.

Attorney Gen. C. William O'Neill immediately filed a motion to dismiss the injunction to obtain a quick test of the law's validity.

Paternity Blood Tests Refused

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5—The Ohio supreme court has sent a paternity suit back to the Hamilton County courts with instructions to disregard the results of an inconclusive blood test.

The high court held that evidence of bloods grouping tests were admissible only when the results establish non-paternity and that, where the tests showed a mere possibility of parentage the admission of such evidence is prejudicially erroneous.

New Citizens

MASTER ROBY
Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Roby of 122 West Mill street, are the parents of a son, born at 1:45 a. m. Wednesday in Berger hospital.

MASTER GREGG
Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gregg of Ashville are the parents of an eight-pound, 10-ounce son, born at 11:35 p. m. Tuesday in Mercy hospital, Columbus.

Adelphi Driver Hurt In Crash Through Fence

Perry Ellsworth Jenkins, 28, of Adelphi, suffered left leg injuries at 5:15 p. m. Tuesday when his car failed to make a curve on the Adelphi-Stringtown road, crashed into a ditch and through a fence.

Deputy Sheriff John White said that Jenkins, who was driving south on Route 56 near Stringtown, failed to make a curve and lost control of his auto, which skidded across the road into a ditch.

The auto ran through a fence on the Herschel Armstrong farm, continued for 100 feet in a field and then ran into the fence again, tearing down five posts and damaging nine rods of fence.

Jenkins was fined $25 and $12.37 in costs in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root Tuesday night on accusation of reckless operation.

The arrest was the first for Deputy White, who joined the sheriff's department Monday after resigning his job as a Circleville patrolman.

Gen. Beightler Pulls A Coolidge

OKINAWA, Dec. 5—Gen. Robert Beightler, who was proposed as a U.S. presidential candidate without his consent, said today "I am sure that neither Senator Taft nor President Truman is quaking in his boots."

Beightler's name was put in the running by J. Ratliff Yearwood of Georgia.

Saturday, Yearwood said friends of the general had asked him to manage Beightler's campaign.

The general said "the proposal is too fantastic to merit comment from me. However, suffice it to say 'I do not choose to run.'"

Patient's Body To Be Examined

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5—Coroner Robert A. Evans has ordered the body of Ernest Keppel, 22-year-old Tiffin patient in Columbus state school, returned to Columbus for an autopsy.

Keppel's burial in a Tiffin cemetery was halted shortly after the coffin had been lowered into the grave.

The report of the youth's death was not made until Monday, two days after he reportedly fell from a window in the home. An investigation into the death is being conducted.

Jury Decides Bolding Guilty

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5—A common pleas court jury today found 18-year-old Kenneth Bolding guilty of first-degree murder, but recommended mercy.

That makes a life sentence mandatory for the Columbus youth, who was convicted of killing Virginia Bates, a Columbus hotel caterer, Dec. 4, 1950.

Two Local Men File Petitions For '52 Primary

Two local men already have taken on petitions seeking nomination for reelection during the 1952 May primary.

Receiving petitions from Pickaway County board of elections this week were Henry T. McCrady, seeking nomination for reelection as county engineer; and Ed Wallace, seeking nomination for reelection as county representative to the state legislature.

The primaries in 1952 will be held May 6, with deadline for filing nominating petitions due in the second week of February.

The 1952 election will be the presidential election, along with state office elections and most of the county offices.

County offices to be involved in the primary election will be coroner, treasurer, sheriff, clerk of courts, prosecuting attorney, recorder, engineer and two county commissioner offices.

State offices to be presented during the primary are governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general, representative and representative at large to Congress, state supreme court, state central committee and representative to general assembly.

Other posts to be sought are county central committee, delegate and alternate to the state convention and delegate and alternate from the district to the national convention.

Movie Starlet May Miss Title Of Maharani

LONDON, Dec. 5—Nancy Valentine, Hollywood starlet who went to India to marry the maharajah of Cooch-Bihar, reportedly will return to the United States single, untitled and disillusioned.

The shapely actress' wedding, according to the London Daily Express, has been cancelled, partly because of her own feelings and partly because of governmental objections.

A Calcutta dispatch to the newspaper said the maharajah returned to Calcutta from three days of interviews with governmental officials in New Delhi to find his fiancée packing for home.

Nancy reportedly does not like the climate, the food or the thought of living in India. She also is said to be rebellious at the thought of substituting a sari for her Western style wardrobe.

The maharajah was said to have been told by government officials that they would grudgingly agree to Nancy becoming a maharani, but he also learned that the New Delhi regime would never become fully reconciled to the match.

4 County Men Signed By Navy

Four Pickaway County men were enlisted into the U.S. Navy recently through the Circleville recruiting office.

They were Mark Wellman, Junior Martin and Bill Weaver, all of Walnut Township, and Wesley Hill of Circleville.

All four have been assigned to "boot" training in the U.S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill.

Teen Tips

When you're invited to your first formal dance, you'll feel a little like Cinderella, stepping out of blue jeans and into a full-length formal evening dress.

But, unlike Cinderella, you won't have a fairy godmother to arrange the big evening for you, so here are some tips to help:

1. Be ready in time to greet your date at the door when he calls for you. Have your lipstick, comb and hanky tucked into your evening bag and your corsage in its box or pinned on your coat, blossoms up, ready to transfer to your dress when you arrive at the dance.

2. Let him hold your coat for you, say goodnight to your parents, and precede him into the car. He'll open the door for you. But he precedes you in getting out of the car, so he can open the door and help you out.

3. If he's a smooth dater, he has arranged to exchange some dances with other couples. If introductions are in order, he's the one to make them. (See our next column for more about introductions.) At the end of the exchanged dance, you and your partner rejoin your date and the other girl.

4. If he suggests a snack after the dance, go easy on his billfold. Let him suggest where to go and what to order. Most boys are relieved when their date orders just a milk shake.

5. If your parents have given you a curfew, it's nothing to be embarrassed about. Tell your date what time you have to be home, so you two can plan accordingly.

(For a free leaflet, "Personality Perk-Ups" to help improve your popularity, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elinor Williams at this paper.)

DOWNED FLIERS ARE HOSTAGES

Red's Seizure Of Airmen Embarrassing To The U.S.

PRAGUE, Dec. 5—The Moscow-directed Hungarian Communist regime has seized some more American hostages in defiance of the United States, potentially the most powerful nation in the world.

All this is very painful and embarrassing to the United States, but it is very neat for Russia.

When the four unarmed American airmen got lost flying from Munich to Belgrade to deliver supplies for the U. S. Embassy in Marshal Tito's capital they played into Communist hands, in several ways.

At the moment Russia is on the spot at the United Nations Assembly session in Paris, where Tito's regime has accused it of marshaling nearly 1,000,000 satellite troops near Yugoslavia.

Tito also has accused Russia of stepping up "hostile activities" such as frontier incidents along the borders with Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, and Albania.

SO IT WAS a timely accident that caused four American airmen, who apparently mistook the Drava river for the Sava river in Yugoslavia, to get forced down in Hungary by Soviet fighter planes.

This works several ways in favor of the Russian propagandists.

They can accuse the United States and Yugoslavia—which they do repeatedly—of teaming together in espionage and fashioning a "springboard" in Yugoslavia for a so-called "Imperialist attack" on Russia and its satellites.

They can resort to the hostage system also to humiliate the United States and to exact tribute.

Hungary already has used the hostage idea—a reversion to barbarism which was used with such ruthlessness by the Nazis.

Budapest held the American businessman, Robert A. Vogeler, on trumped-up spy charges for 17 months, finally releasing him when the United States agreed to some international political and financial conditions.

The Vogeler affair was a "ransom case." That of the four airmen may become the same.

Washington observers believe it will be a long and difficult fight to obtain the release of the airmen.

THEY NOTICED that on Nov. 24 the Hungarian Communist regime sent a long note charging that the U. S. had not carried out its agreement in the Vogeler case.

That note was delivered five days after the seizure of the unarmed and lost American airmen, who Moscow says were on a "criminal mission" intending to drop Yu-

announcement mentioned Gyula, which is 180 miles Southeast of the big Russian air base at Papa.

Papa, about 75 miles West of Budapest, is a Soviet Air Force headquarters, one of the many bases enabling strict Soviet control of the satellite state.

Refugee reports long ago characterized the air base as one of the spots whence Soviet planes were carrying aid to Greek Communist guerrillas fighting the elected Athens regime.

Charter Panel Given $100 By City Council

Inclusion of $100 in the city's budget for 1952 was authorized by council Tuesday night for city charter commission expenses.

Robert L. Brehmer, spokesman of the newly-formed 15-member commission asked that the money be appropriated to take care of incidental expenses of the group.

Circleville voters approved the establishment of the commission

Nov. 6. The group will study the needs of the city, propose improvements in the form of city government to meet present demands, subject to approval of voters at a future election.

The money would be used to pay expenses of a speaker who would provide information to the commission as to different types of city government which could be set up.

Other commission members present at the council meeting included Wilson R. Clark, Annette G. Will and Richard W. Penn, who

That note was delivered five days after the seizure of the unarmed and lost American airmen, who Moscow says were on a "criminal mission" intending to drop Yugoslav spies and saboteurs behind the "Iron Curtain."

The Moscow-trained Hungarians at the time knew that they had "four aces in the hole," the airmen, when they sent the note about the Vogeler case.

Yet all the time the Budapest regime which maintains the fiction of being a sovereign one told the U. S. Legation emissary that it was without knowledge of the missing airmen.

It was not until Moscow, significantly, chose to announce what happened to the missing airmen two weeks after their disappearance, that the Budapest regime confirmed that it was holding the airmen and the C-47 cargo plane.

The Russian fighters apparently encountered the American plane wandering near the Southeastern Hungarian frontier. The Moscow announcement mentioned Gyula, which is 180 miles Southeast of the big Russian air base at Papa.

Papa, about 75 miles West of Budapest, is a Soviet Air Force headquarters, one of the many bases enabling strict Soviet control of the satellite state.

A GLUT OF LAWS

THE Wall Street Journal notes many examples bearing on the thesis that there are too many laws. At Yonkers, N. Y., the police—angered because the citizens voted down a proposition to increase their pay—began to enforce all the traffic regulations. The courts became clogged with traffic cases and the ire of the citizens rose.

A Kansas City grocer said he would have no time to sell groceries if he made an effort to interpret and follow all OPS regulations. The Journal also recalls that upon a time taxi drivers in Paris, in a fit of pique, decided to observe all the traffic regulations to the letter. The result was a colossal traffic jam.

The United States has become a nation so saturated by the voluminous letter of the law that the spirit of it is vanishing. It is probably true that every citizen violates some congressional, legislative or municipal enactment every day without realizing it. Because there are so many laws on the books that aren't obeyed, the natural consequence is to regard other laws as of little consequence.

It would be a salutary development if Congress, the legislatures and the city councils, after disposing of their fiscal duties, devoted the remainder of their time to sloughing off excess laws, regulations and ordinances until the nation got back to bedrock. The few surviving laws would command more respect, and law enforcement officials would have more time to devote to their enforcement.

SLOW DOWN ON HOMES

WITH thousands of families residing in makeshift quarters in critical areas, it is difficult to understand what Tighe E. Woods, federal rent stabilizer, is driving at when he suggests a federal order which would limit the construction of new homes.

Only a serious shortage of materials and manpower needed for actual war production would justify a move of this sort. Otherwise it would be a control for which there is no need, a control solely for control's sake.

If Mr. Woods opposes additional federal housing, government financed and operated, he is on the right track. But, taking his past record into consideration, this isn't likely.

Private construction has been doing a splendid job in all parts of the nation. Unless harassed by the government and the unions, private enterprise will come through as usual.

Credit controls have slowed down sales of new homes, and they will continue to do so unless they are removed. Because of high employment, at high wages, many families are now able to acquire homes for the first time. To deny them this privilege is manifestly unfair to those who want to graduate from the tenant class to home ownership, which is a laudable ambition for every member of every American family.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Men have a way of saying things that they would prefer probably no one should remember. They speak with the authority of high office and hope that it will be assumed that they know what they are talking about. Too often such men read, in public, speeches written for them by committees or press agents which differ from what they say in private, and the excuse is that their high office requires such consolidated thinking.

Then they leave their high offices. They disappear from public life. The public quickly forgets about them. Even their names are lost in the welter of new names. But the mischief that can be done by irresponsible statements, lightly made, perhaps prepared by the writers of the speaker's department of government or some other, cannot be so readily undone. It leaves a permanent impression on the public mind.

Hitler called this process "The Big Lie." If repeated often enough, the tale grows into a certitude. It is believed, for instance, Franco was given a bad name by the vast propagandistic forces of International Communism. How much of that bad name was or is deserved has never been analyzed by the public. It grew into an international axiom, accepted generally and serving only Soviet Russia's Imperialism.

This axiom is considered, studied and analyzed by Professor Carlton J. H. Hayes in his book, "The United States and Spain." This is a valuable contribution to the subject by a scholar of outstanding reputation who has had the advantage of studying the subject first hand as American Ambassador to Spain. It is altogether doubtful whether Professor Hayes's book will arrest the Anti-Franco propaganda in this country or that it will vitally alter public opinion. The big lie stands. To this day, Franco has a bad name and among some Americans, Stalin still does not have the bad name he has always deserved.

I note that Kenneth C. Royall, who used to be, and not so long ago, Secretary of the Army of the United States, said at one time:

"We frown on dictatorships in general and Communistic dictatorships in particular. But when any government—whether Democratic or otherwise—is firmly established in a country, I do not believe we have a right to foment revolution against it."

This looks like a correct attitude, but when a war is being fought with new weapons, one of which is infiltration, what defensive weapons can be developed? Let us ask about Poland. That country has now become a virtual province of Russia by conquest, infiltration and propaganda. Poland has practically ceased to exist, although there are pretenses of sovereignty.

Yet, one cannot forget that on Sept. 3, 1939, our world went to war over the sovereignty of Poland. Stalin and Hitler, Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia were then in alliance and they entered Poland simultaneously. It all seemed very important then, important enough to cause a general war.

That reverberating "whoosh" to be heard soon will be prices readjusting themselves to new wage levels.

One tenth of the food in the United States is eaten by insects. This does not include visiting relatives, of course.

The near-collapse of the Eisenhower boom for President seems to have resulted in the silencing, at least for the moment, of the fiery Senator Duff.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN
NICHOLAS took off his watch, laid it on the desk before Mollie. "Ten minutes," he said. "From the beginning."

"Yes." Her eyes on his face, anger and grief occasionally flaring, she told the entire story, describing Johnny, the grandmother, Dr. Voss, and the threat to let Joe or someone operate!

"The minute I realized the family's opinion of me as a woman doctor—but that Voss! He's the one to blame for the publicity! How did they ever get the child into City?"

"Took him home. Had the police call an ambulance as an emergency."

"Yes—but even now, Nicholas... She leaned toward him. "Everyone is forgetting the child and the fact that he has cancer. He can lose his leg through this gee-hawing between doctors and hospitals! Ethics, our rights—nothing matters except Johnny! And nobody remembers that."

His smile was sweet. "You remember it, Mollie," he said softly. She blinked. "Oh, Nicholas—please tell me what to do? Should I go down there and operate?"

"You told the City hospital manager that you'd ask Mac."

"Oh, he and Stoezel and this fellow have it all cooked up. I know what they'll say."

"Then you know what you're going to have to do?" he said, reaching for his watch, slipping the band over his hand.

"Nicholas!"

He looked up. "Yes?"

"Will you do that operation? Will you? Oh, please, Nicholas!" Her tone was tense to the point of prayerfulness.

He sat gazing out of the window. "I know you're in a spot, Mollie, and I'll tell you what to do. Like you, I know Stoezel and Mac will agree to it. Now—you asked for advice, and this is it. I hope you take it. You call your friend—after checking with Mac, but it'll be O.K. You call the City hospital manager and tell him to send Johnny back to Children's. His father's insurance with one of the Group's hospitals takes him out of the charity class and so he is ineligible for free City care. The City hospital should—and will—tell the father to return the child to Railroad, and thus to Children's—and to you. All you have to do is mention that insurance to the manager. He's waiting for you to do it."

"More gee-hawing," said Mollie wryly. "Then what?"

"Then you and I together will operate on Johnny."

She stood up, finding her knees weak, her skin prickly in her nerves, relief from strain. Then, Nicholas—she breathed. Then a thought struck her. She looked at him. "What if something goes wrong?" she asked tightly. "It could! What if Johnny—what if he dies?"

He seized her arm and shook her. "You're punicky," he accused. "I'm ashamed of you, Mollie!"

"But he could die, Nicholas!"

"Of course he could. And that would be very nasty, for all concerned. But—he has an equal chance of not dying. If he doesn't—even if his leg is saved—you won't get any credit. Have you thought of that?"

Her face pale, she managed a smile. "Quick, let's go talk to the Chief," she said firmly.

Johnny Ormond was returned to Children's hospital that afternoon; the operation on his knee was scheduled for ten the next morning. After the publicity and the hospital talk, Dr. Cowan's name was scarcely needed to fill the big amphitheater in which the surgery was to take place. The benches were packed. The City hospital orthopedic surgeon and the manager were there. Dr. Voss was given a place, and hadn't the wit to refuse it. Every Staff, resident, nurse and student who could claim a right and chance to be present was there. Peter Shepherd was—he was down on the floor, a sort of assistant to the assistants.

Hearing the gloves snap on Nicholas' hands, Dr. McIntosh whispered to Dr. Stoezel, "This is a very big day in my life."

"How did you manage it?"

"I decided that the way to deal with a woman doctor was not to fight it, but to go along with her being a woman."

"That means something, I suppose?"

"It means Nicholas Cowan dressed in a gown stenciled O.P.R. ROOM."

"Looks good, too," said Stoezel, his eyes smiling.

Mollie, winding gauze, glanced up at Nicholas who was giving his p.o. orders. His eyes were shining, unvoiced excitement enriched his voice. Mollie was happy, too, and thought she knew now he felt. She could even be glad she'd got into trouble; it had leveled a way for Nicholas to get back into active surgery. Maybe he'd been wanting a way—on the way over to Children's, she'd express her hope that he'd continue to work with her. If he took the suggestion personally—well—

He had been giving his orders to the surgical resident, but—"Make your report to Dr. Brooks," he concluded.

Disappointed—as rebuffed as if she had spoken her plans—Mollie saw him push against the door of the scrub-up room, saw its pale green emptiness flap into place.

She shrugged her chin free of the mask and turned to follow the cart which carried Johnny Ormond.

"At last," said Peter Shepherd, falling back to walk beside her. "I've seen Dr. Cowan operate!"

MARCH OF EVENTS
Tax Scandals to Haunt Administration in 1952 | Wasteful Spending Probe Also Election Year Bogy

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The 1952 election year is expected to open on an embarrassing note for the administration as Congress continues investigations of tax scandals and wasteful government spending. Adrian DeWind, chief counsel for the special House subcommittee probing Internal Revenue operations, predicts the tax investigation will continue "well into next year."

Since the top tax officials are all invariably Democrats, having been appointed during the 18 years of Democratic rule, Republicans are sure to make a campaign issue out of tax irregularities disclosed.

Meanwhile, the Senate expenditures committee plans to look into government supply practices, covering such matters as too many desks and too much duplication.

For instance, there is the case of an Army medical depot and a Navy medical depot, across the street from each other in Oakland, Cal.

The committee's staff thinks the two supply houses are a waste of money and manpower since both supply the same items but the Army uses only 53 per cent and the Navy only about two-thirds of their available space.

The situation is complicated by the fact that the Army lists its depot in San Francisco, where it gets its mail. But, actually, the committee says it's in Oakland.

● PROPAGANDA—The Communists in Indo-China have come up with one of the most amazing horror propaganda stories since the butcher stories of World War I "revealed" Germans were cutting the hands off Belgian children.

Indo-Chinese Reds have broadcast a charge the United States is using prisoners of war in experiments on the effects of nuclear radiation. They say: "During the three atomic experiments in Nevada, the United States has made use of Korean and Vietnamese prisoners of war as guinea pigs."

The horror tales were allegedly based on the report of an "unfortunate subject who managed to escape" from Nevada. The broadcasts did not explain how the "escapee" made his way back to Indo-China.

● GHOST CAPITAL—When a news conference held by a minor government official attracts 75 reporters instead of the usual 10 or 12, you know that Washington has hit the doldrums.

A becalmed state is expected now and then but it's seldom that the high tension goes out all at once. There are good reasons for it, though. President Truman is in Key West, Fla. Secretary of State Dean Acheson is in Paris. Congress is in recess until Jan. 8.

On Capitol Hill, where the wind is seldom tempered to the shorn lamb, newsmen go about their daily chores, hoping for a breeze. But the halls are deserted, the restaurants are closed and the galleries are locked. One elevator runs in the deserted Senate wing.

Only an army of secretaries and administrative assistants are on hand to hold the fort while their bosses are home mending their political fences.

The slow motion won't last. It is merely a lull before the storm. Come January, the minor government official will be lucky to face a half a dozen reporters.

A GLUT OF LAWS

THE Wall Street Journal notes many examples bearing on the thesis that there are too many laws. At Yonkers, N. Y., the police—angered because the citizens voted down a proposition to increase their pay—began to enforce all the traffic regulations. The courts became clogged with traffic cases and the ire of the citizens rose.

A Kansas City grocer said he would have no time to sell groceries if he made an effort to interpret and follow all OPS regulations. The Journal also recalls that upon a time taxi drivers in Paris, in a fit of pique, decided to observe all the traffic regulations to the letter. The result was a colossal traffic jam.

The United States has become a nation so saturated by the voluminous letter of the law that the spirit of it is vanishing. It is probably true that every citizen violates some congressional, legislative or municipal enactment every day without realizing it. Because there are so many laws on the books that aren't obeyed, the natural consequence is to regard other laws as of little consequence.

It would be a salutary development if Congress, the legislatures and the city councils, after disposing of their fiscal duties, devoted the remainder of their time to sloughing off excess laws, regulations and ordinances until the nation got back to bedrock. The few surviving laws would command more respect, and law enforcement officials would have more time to devote to their enforcement.

SLOW DOWN ON HOMES

WITH thousands of families residing in makeshift quarters in critical areas, it is difficult to understand what Tighe E. Woods, federal rent stabilizer, is driving at when he suggests a federal order which would limit the construction of new homes.

Only a serious shortage of materials and manpower needed for actual war production would justify a move of this sort. Otherwise it would be a control for which there is no need, a control solely for control's sake.

If Mr. Woods opposes additional federal housing, government financed and operated, he is on the right track. But, taking his past record into consideration, this isn't likely.

Private construction has been doing a splendid job in all parts of the nation. Unless hawassed by the government and the unions, private enterprise will come through as usual.

Credit controls have slowed down sales of new homes, and they will continue to do so unless they are removed. Because of high employment, at high wages, many families are now able to acquire homes for the first time. To deny them this privilege is manifestly unfair to those who want to graduate from the tenant class to home ownership, which is a laudable ambition for every member of every American family.

These Days

Men have a way of saying things that they would prefer probably no one should remember. They speak with the authority of high office and hope that it will be assumed that they know what they are talking about. Too often such men read, in public, speeches written for them by committees or press agents which differ from what they say in private, and the excuse is that their high office requires such consolidated thinking.

Then they leave their high offices. They disappear from public life. The public quickly forgets about them. Even their names are lost in the welter of new names. But the mischief that can be done by irresponsible statements, lightly made, perhaps prepared by the writers of the speaker's department of government or some other, cannot be so readily undone. It leaves a permanent impression on the public mind.

Hitler called this process "The Big Lie." If repeated often enough, the tale grows into a certitude. It is believed, for instance, Franco was given a bad name by the vast propagandistic forces of International Communism. How much of that badname was or is deserved has never been analyzed by the public. It grew into an international axiom, accepted generally and serving only Soviet Russia's Imperialism.

This axiom is considered, studied and analyzed by Professor Carlton J. H. Hayes in his book, "The United States and Spain." This is a valuable contribution to the subject by a scholar of outstanding reputation who has had the advantage of studying the subject first hand as American Ambassador to Spain. It is altogether doubtful whether Professor Hayes's book will arrest the Anti-Franco propaganda in this country or that it will vitally alter public opinion. The big lie stands. To this day, Franco has a bad name and among some Americans, Stalin still does not have the bad name he has always deserved.

I note that Kenneth C. Royall, who used to be, and not so long ago, Secretary of the Army of the United States, said at one time:

"We frown on dictatorships in general and Communistic dictatorships in particular. But when any government—whether Democratic or otherwise—is firmly established in a country, I do not believe we have a right to foment revolution against it."

This looks like a correct attitude, but when a war is being fought with new weapons, one of which is infiltration, what defensive weapons can be developed? Let us ask about Poland. That country has now become a virtual province of Russia by conquest, infiltration and propaganda. Poland has practically ceased to exist, although there are pretenses of sovereignty.

Yet, one cannot forget that on Sept. 3, 1939, our world went to war over the sovereignty of Poland. Stalin and Hitler, Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia were then in alliance and they entered Poland simultaneously. It all seemed very important then, important enough to cause a general war.

That reverberating "whoosh" to be heard soon will be prices readjusting themselves to new wage levels.

One tenth of the food in the United States is eaten by insects. This does not include visiting relatives, of course.

The near-collapse of the Eisenhower boom for President seems to have resulted in the silencing, at least for the moment, of the fiery Senator Duff.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN
NICHOLAS took off his watch, laid it on the desk before Mollie. "Ten minutes," he said. "From the beginning."

"Yes." Her eyes on his face, anger and grief occasionally ruffling her calm, she told the entire story, describing Johnny, the grandmother, Dr. Voss. Panic threatened her as she reached the conclusion. "I told Dr. McIntosh to let Josek or someone operate!" she cried. "The minute I realized the family's opinion of me as a woman doctor—but that Voss! He's the one to blame for the publicity! How did they ever get the child into City?"

"Took him home. Had the police call an ambulance as an emergency."

"Yes—but even now, Nicholas..." She looked toward him. "Everyone is forgetting the child and the fact that he has cancer. He can lose his leg through this gee-hawing between doctors and hospitals! Ethics, our rights—nothing matters except Johnny! And nobody remembers that."

His smile was sweet. "You remember it, Mollie," he said softly. She blinked. "Oh, Nicholas—please tell me what to do? Should I go down there and operate?"

"You told the City hospital manager that you'd ask Mac."

"Oh, he and Stoetzel and this fellow have it all cooked up. I know what they'll say."

"Then you know what you're going to have to do," he said, reaching for his watch, slipping the band over his hand.

"Nicholas!"

He looked up. "Yes?"

"Will you do that operation? Will you? Oh, please, Nicholas!"

Her tone was to the point of prayerfulness.

He sat gazing out of the window. "I know you're in a spot, Mollie, and I'll tell you what to do. Like you, I know Stoetzel and Mac will agree to it. Now—you asked for advice, and this is it. Hearing the gloves snap on Nicholas' hands, Dr. McIntosh whispered to Dr. Stoetzel, "This is a very big day in my life."

"How did you manage it?"

"I decided that the way to deal with a woman doctor was not to fight it, but to go along with her being a woman."

"That means something, I suppose?"

"It means Nicholas Cowan dressed in a gown stenciled OPR ROOM."

"Looks good, too," said Stoetzel, his eyes smiling.

Mollie, winding gauze, glanced up at Nicholas who was giving his p.o. orders. His eyes were shining, unwonted excitement enriched his voice. Mollie was happy, too, and thought she knew now he felt. She could even be glad she'd got into trouble; it had leveled a way for Nicholas to get back into active surgery. Maybe he'd been wanting a way—on the way over to Children's, she'd express her hope that he'd continue to work with her. If he took the suggestion personally—well—

He had been giving his orders to the surgical resident, but—"Make your report to Dr. Brooks," he concluded.

Disappointed—as rebuffed as if she had spoken her plans—Mollie saw him push against the door of the scrub-up room, saw its pale green emptiness flap into place.

She shrugged her chin free of the mask and turned to follow the cart which carried Johnny Ormond.

"At last," said Peter Shepherd, falling back to walk beside her. "I've seen Dr. Cowan operate!

Yeah, man! And he's good! But so are you."

Mollie glanced up, frowning. "Yes," she said coldly, "I even dropped a sequestum."

He laughed, remembering that small clang of metal upon the tiled floor, and Nicholas' cool voice...

"Yes, Doctor?" "I didn't mean only the operation," Peter went on "or you as a surgeon." As they entered one of the tunnels, and were alone for the minute, his hand touched her shoulder. "I was thinking more of the clever way you solved an extremely bad situation. You dropped no forceps there, I've never seen anything so gracefully done. I suppose you had time to catch the look on Voss' face this morning?"

"Was he there?"

"Didn't you know he was?"

"I'd have dropped more than a sequestum."

"Not you. You did a wonderful job, in all respects. Johnny won't even limp."

"It the bone grates..."

"They'll take. I tell you, I was proud of you. The way Dr. McIntosh beamed at you—and Stoetzel. Are you going to have your picture in the paper?"

"Oh, sure. Right along with the Nicholas."

"Yes, I heard how he cut down the suggestion of a photographer in the operating room."

"He's a wonderful person, Peter." She spoke solemnly.

"Yes, he is. But I stood there watching you, and I said to myself, 'That's my girl! and gee, I was proud!'"

Mollie's tone was crisp. "Are you perhaps polishing the apple a little, Dr. Shepherd?"

He frowned. "How do you mean?"

She shook her head, her hair spraying.

They walked along. "You mean, because you're Staff," decided Peter. "Well—that's right. You are Staff. But I keep forgetting it. You don't look like a doctor, though you're a fine one. But the way you look, and are, away from your work—I keep forgetting the doctor part. I mean that as a compliment, Mollie."

Mollie stretched her gaze cap between her hands. "Thank you, doctor," she said formally.

Peter blinked. "Have I said something wrong?"

"No. Though I do feel it's better to separate personal and professional matters."

"I don't do too well at that," he confessed. "When I was assigned over here, I got a pretty definite warning to watch my attitude to the Staff doctors."

Mollie looked up questioningly. "I told them," he went on bravely, his cheek deeply creased, "that I'd had no complaints from any of the—er—Staff."

Mollie made no answer. Head up, cheeks red, she stepped ahead of him into the elevator.

You're Telling Me!

A national hosiery survey discloses that women's feet have got an inch longer since 1930. Evidently they think anything sticking out like that ought to be painted red.

Most popular hosiery size has edged up from 9 to 10. There are other figures to show that women are on a firmer footing.

!!!

From the Ohio Farm Bureau federation come statistics that women buy 63 per cent of men's neckties. No wonder so many men wear the same ties day after day.

!!!

The Farm Bureau says women pay more than 80 per cent of the nation's inheritance taxes, which means they outlive men. But it's Uncle Sam who has the last word.

!!!

Statistics also say women spend 85 per cent of the family income. Evidently those families living above their income are the ones in which the husband attempts to assert himself.

!!!

Women also own 55 per cent of the nation's savings accounts. That proves it's men's money they're spending.

!!!

It's the charge account that makes it so easy for women to spend the money. That throws the no-account family in a more favorable light.

'God's Kingdom In Ohio,' Is Subject Of Address By Mrs. Donald Mitchell

Mrs. Hosler Is New Member

The development of the church in Ohio and its importance in shaping the future of the state was the subject of an address made by Mrs. Donald Mitchell to members of Monday Club.

Mrs. Mitchell began her talk by stating, "God's Kingdom in Ohio is intangible. It is shown through the people and their deeds." She continued:

"Probably the first minister's wife to enter the Ohio territory was Mrs. James B. Finley whose father was so angry when she married a Presbyterian preacher's son that he refused to let her take her own clothes from his house."

"Even though James Finley's father was a Presbyterian minister, he became a Methodist circuit rider, one of those, who joined with others, set off a religious frenzy that swept across the State like a forest fire."

Mrs. Mitchell continued, "If Methodism swept the state like a forest fire, Presbyterianism came in like a glacier."

"They moved deliberately and carefully. To defend the tenets of their faith seemed their first duty, and they clung to it."

"These early leaders continually argued and debated until the church was threatened with schism. But it all served a purpose; it educated; it cleared the air. Men argue over things which matter most and religion matters."

"The birth of the Lutheran church came but a short generation before the birth of our nation and the church and this nation grew up together."

"The Baptist's dramatic story begins in Providence, R.I., with Roger Williams. They came into Ohio with the pioneer and they have a circuit rider story all their own. The Baptist work with the American Negro following the Civil War is the finest example of home missionary work in the annals of the church."

"Episcopalianism first came to the United States on the deck of a pirate ship with Sir Francis Drake in 1579. It came again with Sir Walter Raleigh and again with Captain John Smith."

"The church of England was thus transplanted to American shores. Through the doors of this transplanted church came the finest people in the colonies, to sit with commoners who were getting the feel of equality for the first time in their lives."

"As early as 1749, French exploration parties included Jesuit priests who sought to convert the Indians. Two years later, Father de la Richardie founded the first Catholic settlement near what is now Sandusky. The Rev. Father Fenwick went to Cincinnati in 1817, and because city ordinances forbade erection of a Catholic church within the city limits, Father Fenwick built just outside the corporation line on the present site of St. Francis church."

"Beautiful churches, schools and hospitals characterize the work of

Bride-Elect Is Honored At Bridal Shower

The first in a series of pre-nuptial parties honoring Miss Lucella Hutchins, was a bridal shower given recently by Miss Sarah Jane Hedges of Ashville.

A color scheme of yellow and white were used in a treasure hunt arranged for the bride-elect. Prizes for the evening were won by Mrs. Judd Dreisbach, and Mrs. Paul Hoover.

Mrs. Fred Hedges assisted the hostess in serving refreshments to the following guests:

Mrs. K. L. Boerger, Mrs. Harold Boerger and daughter Nancy, Misses Elvina and Jeanette Boerger of Plain City; Mrs. B. M. Hutchins and Miss Eleanor Hutchins of Amanda; Mrs. Dreisbach, Miss Nelle Osterle, Miss Helen Irwin, Mrs. Paul Hoover, Mrs. Charles Hines, Miss Barbara Cook, Miss Anna Owens, Miss Martha Norris, Miss Connie Courtwright and the honored guest.

The marriage of Miss Hutchins and Melvin Boerger of Plain City will take place Dec. 19, in her home near Amanda.

The Catholic church throughout the state. The devotion of Roman Catholics to their parish churches calls for admiration.

"The Evangelical United Brethren church had its national headquarters in Circleville in 1845. Much of the history of this denomination centers near us. Otterbein college at Westerville was authorized at a meeting in Bethlehem church, eight miles east of Circleville, in 1846."

Mrs. Mitchell also mentioned several small denominations that are indigenous to Ohio, including the Church of Christ in Christian Union which has its national headquarters at the Mount of Praise Camp Ground in Circleville.

Mrs. Mitchell closed her address with praise for Friends or Quakers in Ohio. She said, "The Quaker has pioneered in charity. He befriended the Indian; pleaded for the insane and begged for better prisons. He has been gracious, gentle and Christian. We would all do well to study the secret of his calm soul, his inner light."

Mrs. Ralph Hosler of Ashville was welcomed as a new member during the business session.

Looking Ahead

By George Benson
President
Hardin College

The question of what is being taught in our schools and colleges has begun to attract nationwide attention. This is a healthy development, for it undoubtedly will lead to a more active interest in education on the part of school patrons. In the long run the students, the schools and their faculties, and our nation itself will benefit.

Many factors have combined to arouse this mounting public interest in what's going on inside our schools and colleges.

Influential factors include (1) the American Association of University Professors' approval of Communist professors as fit to teach in American colleges; (2) the return to influence in the academic world of the exponents of so-called "progressive education"; and (3) various polls showing recent graduating classes to be lukewarm or cool toward basic American principles.

A book has just been published that promises to stir up still wider public interest. The title is "God and Man at Yale." The author, William F. Buckley, Jr., is a 1950 graduate of Yale University. The book contains sensational accusations. The author's conclusion is that Yale today is turning out graduating classes whose members, in overwhelming numbers, have little respect for the tenets of Christianity and for the principles which form the foundation of the American private enterprise system.

ONE BY ONE he examines the ideological and ethical convictions of a number of Yale's most influential professors, and his well-documented findings are stunning. He reports, for instance, that the history professor whose class attracts twice as many students as any other history class "is emphatically and vigorously atheistic;" that a popular professor in the Department of Religion describes himself to his students as "80 per cent atheist and 20 per cent agnostic;" that in the Department of Sociology, the class which attracts more students than any other class at Yale was taught by a professor who "never left room for doubt as to the contempt in which he held religion, Christianity in particular."

Buckley declares that a handful of professors in the Department of Economics believe in the principles of private enterprise but that a majority of the staff are Socialists of varying degrees, and they wield an overpowering influence on the teachers and in the selection of textbooks.

He cites bulky quotations from economics textbooks which seem to be strongly biased against the American system of free enterprise and in favor of collectivism, or Socialism.

"God and Man at Yale" cannot be lightly dismissed by anyone. Its charges are serious, and Buckley himself is a man of considerable stature in Yale's undergraduate history. He is described in the Yale 1951 Class History as one of the most brilliant undergraduates ever to attend Yale. He was managing editor and chairman of the famed Yale Daily News, a leading member of the Debating Society, Senior class orator, and a member of the Fence Club, Elizabethan Club, Torch Honor Society, and Skull and Bones. His book, in a sense, is a continuation of the fight he waged against "Leftist" teachings during his entire five years at Yale.

Some reviewers of "God and Man at Yale" suggest that the situation which Buckley describes at Yale exists in many universities and colleges. The testimony of ex-Communist Elizabeth Bentley before a Senate committee, echoes this.

"IN BECOMING a Communist," she testified, "there are two

Penney Company To Issue Special Year-End Bonus

The board of directors of J. C. Penney Co. have authorized a special year-end payment of an amount equal to two weeks' pay for all fulltime associates who have been employed for the full year of 1951 and proportionate amounts for extra and parttime associates and those employed less than a year.

All Penney associates except management staff members, whose earnings are determined largely by the Company's long-standing profit-sharing plan, will share in the payment. It will be made on Dec. 15 at each associate's Dec. 15 pay rate.

George Fuhrman, manager of the local Penney store, said that more than 50,000 Penney associates throughout the United States would participate in the payment, including 35 of the Circleville store.

He said the company president, A. W. Hughes, in a letter to store associates, pointed out that the payment was "based upon the results attained for 1951. An extra payment of this sort for a company of our size represents a very large amount. The possibility of similar payments in future years will continue to depend upon the results attained in those years."

Looking Ahead

By George Benson
President
Hardin College

The question of what is being taught in our schools and colleges has begun to attract nationwide attention. This is a healthy development, for it undoubtedly will lead to a more active interest in education on the part of school patrons. In the long run the students, the schools and their faculties, and our nation itself will benefit.

Many factors have combined to arouse this mounting public interest in what's going on inside our schools and colleges.

Influential factors include (1) the American Association of University Professors' approval of Communist professors as fit to teach in American colleges; (2) the return to influence in the academic world of the exponents of so-called "progressive education"; and (3) various polls showing recent graduating classes to be lukewarm or cool toward basic American principles.

A book has just been published that promises to stir up still wider public interest. The title is "God and Man at Yale." The author, William F. Buckley, Jr., is a 1950 graduate of Yale University. The book contains sensational accusations. The author's conclusion is that Yale today is turning out graduating classes whose members, in overwhelming numbers, have little respect for the tenets of Christianity and for the principles which form the foundation of the American private enterprise system.

ONE BY ONE he examines the ideological and ethical convictions of a number of Yale's most influential professors, and his well-documented findings are stunning. He reports, for instance, that the history professor whose class attracts twice as many students as any other history class "is emphatically and vigorously atheistic;" that a popular professor in the Department of Religion describes himself to his students as "80 per cent atheist and 20 per cent agnostic;" that in the Department of Sociology, the class which attracts more students than any other class at Yale was taught by a professor who "never left room for doubt as to the contempt in which he held religion, Christianity in particular."

Buckley declares that a handful of professors in the Department of Economics believe in the principles of private enterprise but that a majority of the staff are Socialists of varying degrees, and they wield an overpowering influence on the teachers and in the selection of textbooks.

He cites bulky quotations from economics textbooks which seem to be strongly biased against the American system of free enterprise and in favor of collectivism, or Socialism.

"God and Man at Yale" cannot be lightly dismissed by anyone. Its charges are serious, and Buckley himself is a man of considerable stature in Yale's undergraduate history. He is described in the Yale 1951 Class History as one of the most brilliant undergraduates ever to attend Yale. He was managing editor and chairman of the famed Yale Daily News, a leading member of the Debating Society, Senior class orator, and a member of the Fence Club, Elizabethan Club, Torch Honor Society, and Skull and Bones. His book, in a sense, is a continuation of the fight he waged against "leftist" teachings during his entire five years at Yale.

Some reviewers of "God and Man at Yale" suggest that the situation which Buckley describes at Yale exists in many universities and colleges. The testimony of ex-Communist Elizabeth Bentley before a Senate committee echoes this.

"IN BECOMING a Communist," she testified, "there are two stages. You go through a system of upbringing in education which in my day—and it is still going on today—tends to take whatever religion you have out of you and to undermine your faith in democracy at a very young age, at an age when a youngster needs something to hang onto, something to believe in, something to fight for; instead you are left in a terrible state of confusion; you no longer perhaps have any belief in God."

"When I became a Communist," Miss Bentley testified, "I was finishing the last part of my master's thesis at Columbia (she joined a cell which included students and professors at Columbia). I would say that my studies in Vassar had gotten me to the point where I was a complete pushover for Communism. I would say that is the general tendency, not only at Vassar, but in a goodly number of colleges."

If such a situation is indeed widespread then the immediate active interest of every American should be aroused. Both the Socialists and the Communists boast that they can come to power, gradually, through the infiltration of our schools and colleges, by capturing the minds of our youth.

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

A few minutes ago I heard in my car a radio commentator doing a most unusual thing. He started out by saying he was going to do something out of the ordinary. In a few minutes he said some good things about several of our nation's political leaders of whom we usually hear violent hates expressed. He carefully selected about as many Republicans as Democrats.

We are awfully glad we live in a democracy where we may think and talk about as we please.

But our proneness to partisanship causes us to divide our local, state and national political leaders into goats and sheep, with all the good in the goats and all the bad in the sheep; and what are goats to some of us are sheep to the rest of us and vice versa.

While none of us could stomach a one-party system like that of Russia, we do have difficulty with our hates, to keep them from blinding us to the good, however small, in others we don't label as our kind or party.

Let us call to mind some of our outstanding leaders of long ago. If a John Doe who lived when George Washington or Thomas Jefferson or Abraham Lincoln lived could come alive and hear and read what is said and written of these men now, this John Doe might be amazed to hear no hates of them expressed.

I'M THINKING of the effect on our children of the hates they hear expressed so violently and constantly about the "goats." These children grow up in an atmosphere in which expression of hates may be so strong and frequent that they rarely are exposed to efforts at seeing much good in anybody not identified with the particular prejudices of their parents.

Of course, we want to leave no doubts about our hates of injustice and dishonesty in anyone and not love up our loyalties. Yet political hates are so frequent as they are fanned by the concerted efforts on our side to get in if we are out, or to stay in if we are in, and by the related "news" which is so often colored by further prejudices.

Human nature prompts us to feel and act first and think afterwards, if at all, and try to justify our emotional bias. Who ventures to question us we tend to classify as unfriendly and to dislike or even hate.

In the family, the adolescent girl or boy who attempts to disagree with us may soon find himself considered disrespectful or impertinent.

In our remarks in the family, we tend to label other persons by our pet prejudices and often on the basis of relatively small items. Our children may hear us express our hates and rarely hear us dwell on the good, especially in those persons we often condemn. We parents and teachers tend to classify a child as bad or good, though we are slowly beginning to assume there is a lot of good in every child.

While we hardly can hope for great improvement in ourselves, we might with effort gain a bit at lessening hates in our family conversation and thus grow the richer ourselves inside.

Answering Parents' Questions

Q. I once saw a mother when her youngster, two, was lying on his back on the floor kicking and screaming during a temper tantrum, step over him nonchalantly as she walked to another room, as if he were a mere lifeless object in her way. Wasn't she cruel?

A. No. The procedure powerfully dramatized to him that his mother was not at all affected by his rage. If this mother continues with such an attitude consistently, tantrums in her child will pretty surely disappear.

Q. Our children, seven and nine, usually get to school on time, but the ordeal of getting them off is an awful strain on my nerves.

A. Perhaps the family should rise fifteen or thirty minutes earlier. Then put the responsibility on the children for getting off on time. If either is a serious dawdler on a school morning, don't let him go to school if he is not ready on time, but let him sit in a chair without amusement while school is in session, with a five-minute recess between each thirty-minute siege of sitting.

Q. How can I keep my child, three, from mixing his foods and playing with them?

A. By placing before him only one food at a time, and a very, very small portion of it.

The first ice yacht was built by Oliver Booth at Poughkeepsie, N.Y., in 1790.

Rotary Bulletin Urges Look At 'Legacy We Leave'

"Rotary Flashes," weekly bulletin of Circleville Rotary Club, this week asked its members to "look at the legacy we are leaving" the younger generation.

The bulletin declared:

"Taxpayers are just awakening to the sorry mess we are into through delegation of responsibility to governmental agencies. We asked state and federal agencies to do many things for us, which we should have done for ourselves. We thought that government aid was something-for-nothing.

"We permitted bureaus to be created for all sorts of useless projects. We failed to sufficiently endorse the findings of the Hoover Commission. We blame everything onto the 'administration' down at Washington—but we did not pay enough attention when the 'administration' was up for election to insist that all our friends and relatives made sure to get to the polls and vote.

"Have you ever taken time out to write to members of our legislative bodies about any subject? Are YOU willing to make something out of the remark that if 18-year-olds were subject to military service, they ought to have the right to vote?

"Are you willing to go on record as approving the right of 18-year-olds to vote? Are you willing to do something about it?"

"Present educational standards have raised the 'IQ' of 18-year-olds 'way past the equivalent of 21-year-olds of a decade or two ago."

"The least you can do is to write about it to the congressmen you helped elect, (if you remember who they were)."

Countian's Kin Dies In Action

Word has been received of the death in action of Pfc. Edward L. Stratton, of near Washington C. H., brother of Mrs. Violet Haines of New Holland.

Pfc. Stratton, who entered the service on Aug. 5, 1950, died in Korea Nov. 21 of wounds received in action Nov. 19.

Besides Mrs. Haines, he is survived by three other sisters and a brother. Mrs. Haines is the wife of W. A. Haines, vocational agriculture teacher in the New Holland school.

Brehmer Given Board Preview

Robert Brehmer Jr. was initiated to the Circleville board of education Tuesday night.

Brehmer was elected as a new member of the board during the November elections. He was invited to "sit in" Tuesday night when the board met in regular session.

The new member is to replace J. O. Eagleson after Jan. 1. Eagleson did not seek reelection in this year's balloting.

Township Aides To Hold Parley Here Friday

Pickaway County's Association of township trustees and clerks will have its annual meeting at 1:30 p. m. Friday in Circleville Memorial Hall.

Special speaker for the annual meeting will be Dr. William B. Gutteau of Toledo, who will tell of the work accomplished by the state association.

The speaker is a member of the Ohio Bar, has served as superintendent of Toledo schools, finance and service director of Toledo, collector of internal revenue and editor of "Better Highways" magazine.

Directing the annual confab will be C. V. Neal of Orient, president of the local association. William J. Goode is secretary to the group.

Another speaker for the program will be Ellsworth Vannorsdall of Jeffersonville, an officer of the state association. He will speak upon "What the State Association Has Meant to Me."

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

A few minutes ago I heard in my car a radio commentator doing a most unusual thing. He started out by saying he was going to do something out of the ordinary. In a few minutes he said some good things about several of our national political leaders of whom we usually hear violent hates expressed. He carefully selected about as many Republicans as Democrats.

We are awfully glad we live in a democracy where we may think and talk about as we please. But our proneness to partisanship causes us to divide our local, state and national political leaders into goats and sheep, with all the good in the goats and all the good in the sheep; and what are goats to some of us are sheep to the rest of us and vice versa.

While none of us could stomach a one-party system like that of Russia, we do have difficulty with our lates, to keep them from blinding us to the good, however small, in others we don't label as our kind or party.

Let us call to mind some of our outstanding leaders of long ago. If a John Doe who lived when George Washington or Thomas Jefferson or Abraham Lincoln lived could come alive and hear and read what is said and written of these men now, this John Doe might be amazed to hear no hates of them expressed.

I'M THINKING of the effect on our children of the hates they hear expressed so violently and constantly about the "goats." These children grow up in an atmosphere in which expression of hates may be so strong and frequent that they rarely are exposed to efforts at seeing much good in anybody not identified with the particular prejudices of their parents.

Of course, we want to leave no doubts about our hates of injustice and dishonesty in anyone and not love up our loyalties. Yet political hates are so frequent as they are fanned by the concerted efforts on our side to get in if we are out, or to stay in if we are in, and by the related "news" which is so often colored by further prejudices.

Human nature prompts us to feel and act first and think afterwards, if at all, and try to justify our emotional bias. Who ventures to question us we tend to classify as unfriendly and to dislike or even hate.

In the family, the adolescent girl or boy who attempts to disagree with us may soon find himself considered disrespectful or impertinent.

In our remarks in the family, we tend to label other persons by our pet prejudices and often on the basis of relatively small items. Our children may hear us express our hates and rarely hear us dwell on the good, especially in those persons we often condemn. We parents and teachers tend to classify a child as bad or good, though we are slowly beginning to assume there is a lot of good in every child.

While we hardly can hope for great improvement in ourselves, we might with effort gain a bit at lessening hates in our family conversation and thus grow the richer ourselves inside.

Answering Parents' Questions

Q. I once saw a mother when her youngster, two, was lying on his back on the floor kicking and screaming during a temper tantrum, step over him nonchalantly as she walked to another room, as if he were a mere lifeless object in her way. Wasn't she cruel?

A. No. The procedure powerfully dramatized to him that his mother was not at all affected by his rage. If this mother continues with such an attitude consistently, tantrums in her child will pretty surely disappear.

Q. Our children, seven and nine, usually get to school on time, but the ordeal of getting them off is an awful strain on my nerves.

A. Perhaps the family should rise fifteen or thirty minutes earlier. Then put the responsibility on the children for getting off on time. If either is a serious dawdler on a school morning, don't let him go to school if he is not ready on time, but let him sit in a chair without amusement while school is in session, with a five-minute recess between each thirty-minute siege of sitting.

Q. How can I keep my child, three, from mixing his foods and playing with them?

A. By placing before him only one food at a time, and a very, very small portion of it.

The first ice yacht was built by Oliver Booth at Poughkeepsie, N.Y., in 1790.

Rotary Bulletin Urges Look At 'Legacy We Leave'

"Rotary Flashes," weekly bulletin of Circleville Rotary Club, this week asked its members to "look at the legacy we are leaving" the younger generation.

The bulletin declared:

"Taxpayers are just awakening to the sorry mess we are into through delegation of responsibility to governmental agencies. We asked state and federal agencies to do many things for us, which we should have done for ourselves. We thought that government aid was something for nothing."

"We permitted bureaus to be created for all sorts of useless projects. We failed to sufficiently endorse the findings of the Hoover Commission. We blame everything onto the 'administration down at Washington'—but we did not pay enough attention when the 'administration' was up for election to insist that all our friends and relatives make sure to get to the polls and vote."

"Have you ever taken time out to write to members of our legislative bodies about any subject? Are YOU willing to make something out of the remark that if 18-year-olds were subject to military service, they ought to have the right to vote?"

"Are you willing to go on record as approving the right of 18-year-olds to vote? Are you willing to do something about it?"

"Present educational standards have raised the 'IQ' of 18-year-olds 'way past the equivalent of 21-year-olds of a decade or two ago."

"The least you can do is to write about it to the congressmen you

Countian's Kin Dies In Action

Word has been received of the death in action of Pfc. Edward L. Stratton, of near Washington C. H., brother of Mrs. Violet Haines of New Holland.

Pfc. Stratton, who entered the service on Aug. 5, 1950, died in Korea Nov. 21 of wounds received in action Nov. 19.

Besides Mrs. Haines, he is survived by three other sisters and a brother. Mrs. Haines is the wife of W. A. Haines, vocational agriculture teacher in the New Holland schools.

Brehmer Given Board Preview

Robert Brehmer Jr. was initiated to the Circleville board of education Tuesday night.

Brehmer was elected as a new member of the board during the November elections. He was invited to "sit in" Tuesday night when the board met in regular session.

The new member is to replace J. O. Eagleson after Jan. 1. Eagleson did not seek reelection in this year's balloting.

Woman Given Jail Sentence

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 5—Mrs. Margaret Dailey, 33, began a three-month jail term Wednesday for keeping a house of prostitution. She pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge John W. Powers. Her husband, Edward, 40, is free on $500 bond, pending trial on charges of aiding and abetting.

helped elect, (if you remember who they were)."

Township Aides To Hold Parley Here Friday

Pickaway County's Association of township trustees and clerks will have its annual meeting at 1:30 p. m. Friday in Circleville Memorial Hall.

Special speaker for the annual meeting will be Dr. William B. Gutteu of Toledo, who will tell of the work accomplished by the state association.

The speaker is a member of the Ohio Bar, has served as superintendent of Toledo schools, finance and service director of Toledo, collector of internal revenue and editor of "Better Highways" magazine.

Directing the annual confab will be C. V. Neal of Orient, president of the local association. William J. Goode is secretary to the group.

Another speaker for the program will be Ellsworth Vannorsdall of Jeffersonville, an officer of the state association. He will speak

Thursday's Merchant tilt will be preceded by a preliminary at about 7 p. m. The Merchants will meet Beacon Grill at 1:30 p. m. Sunday in a Columbus League game in Aquinas high school.

CHS Cagers Handed 61-54 Defeat By Aquinas In Overtime Contest

Circleville's Red and Black Tiger basketball team was nosed out of the win column again Tuesday night when it invaded Columbus Aquinas cagers.

The Tigers were defeated 61-54 by the Aquinas Terriers in a hectic contest which was decided in an overtime period.

Circleville led in scoring during the first half of the contest, posting an 11-10 first period margin and holding a 24-21 advantage at the half.

Aquinas rallied back in the third frame, however, to score a 35-35 tie with the locals, and each team collected 16 points in the final frame for a 51-51 deadlock.

THE TIGERS were away out of the running in the three-minute overtime period which followed. Circleville struggled to collect three points during the overtime while Aquinas dumped in 10 points, giving them the 61-54 victory.

Aquinas Forward Paul Bean collected game honors during the fracas by hitting for 18 points, while Southpaw Dud Morris paced the Red and Black crew with 16 points.

Circleville's overall showing in Tuesday's tilt was much better than in its season opener last Friday, in which it was defeated 47-39.

Both teams were shooting for their first win of the season in the overtime engagement. Aquinas had lost its opener last Friday by a 36-33 margin to Dayton Wilbur Wright.

Circleville's reserve team also absorbed its second loss of the season Tuesday night when it was handed a 36-21 defeat by the junior Aquinas Terriers.

CIRCLEVILLE's reservists trailed throughout the encounter as the Aquinas juniors posted 13-5, 17-11 and 25-17 period-end advantages.

The Tiger attack was spearheaded by Tom Strawser, who bucketed nine points, although game honors were won by Aquinas's Melchiorre, who collected 10.

Circleville's cage teams will continue to seek their first victories of the season Friday night at Columbus North.

The North Polar Bears have one win behind them to date this year, a 54-42 victory over Marysville.

Box score of Tuesday's twin Tiger loss follows:

Nip Fighter Downs Marino

HONOLULU, Dec. 5 — Yoshio Shirai of Japan last night uncorked a smashing attack to upset world flyweight boxing champion Da d o Marino after a minute and 11 seconds of the seventh round of a scheduled 10 rounder.

The Hawaiian champion's manager threw in the towel after the Japanese put Marino on the canvas six times in the overweight, non-title bout.

Marino was dazed and bloody after being knocked down three times in the sixth round by Shirai's powerful right hook.

Indians Register 51-22 Win Over Mt. Sterling

Monroe's Indian basketball team posted a lopsided 51-22 victory over Mt. Sterling Tuesday night on the Monroe home court.

The Indians surged into a one-sided 18-5 lead in the first period and continued to lead by wide margins until the game was ended.

High scorer in the contest was George Kern, who bucketed 13 counters during the evening, while Mt. Sterling's Brady paced the hapless visitors with 12 points.

Monroe's next match will be a county league test Friday night against invading Atlanta. Box score of Tuesday's win follows:

Darby Defeats Stoutsville By 62-41

Darby's powerhouse Trojan basketball team invaded at Stoutsville Tuesday night to lambaste the host Indian team by a 62-41 margin.

The Trojan attack progressed steadily throughout the test, starting with 19-13 in the first frame, building up to 34-24 at the midmark and developing into a 49-26 count at the three-quarter pole.

Jim Grabill was the key to the Darby scoring attack, pacing the Trojans to the victory with a total of 15 points. Stoutsville's Roger Valentine led the Indian tribe with 13.

Next game for Darby will be Friday night against invading Jackson Wildcats, while Stoutsville will play a Fairfield County league contest against Bern Union.

Poultry Growers Alerted Against Newcastle Disease

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—The Agriculture Department is reminding poultrymen that vaccination of their flocks may do much to prevent the spread of the costly Newcastle disease.

Chickens and turkeys of all ages are susceptible to the disease and mortality is frequently very heavy in chicks and poults as well as among young growing stock.

Although few mature birds die from the disease, egg production can drop to zero within a few days, and normal production can be delayed for a month or more.

Even in birds that do recover, normal growth may be seriously retarded. A department survey showed that when the disease attacks a flock, marketing of broilers is delayed for an average of two weeks.

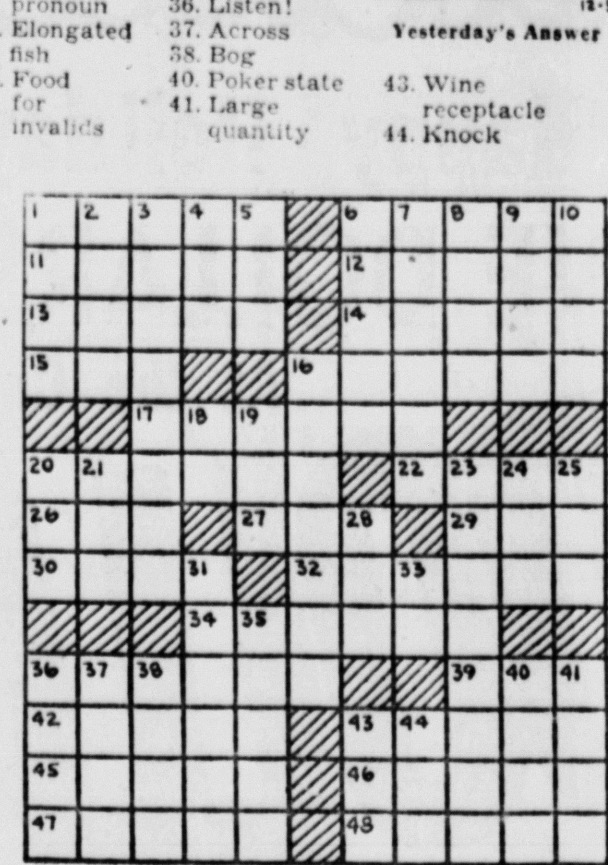

Several types of vaccine have been developed to control or prevent the disease. The choice of vaccine depends upon the age of the birds and the purpose for which they are being raised.

European Tour Impression Cited In Talk Here

Impressions of a European tour last Summer were told to local Kiwanians Monday night.

Dr. Donald Timmerman, secretary of the Franklin County Council of Churches, made four surprising observations about the trip which took him to England and the Continent.

He found that the national health service program in Britain was not a British Labor Party measure, but an addition of a program started in 1911 with health insurance.

The present program came on a report of committee appointed by Winston Churchill's government in 1942. The newly-elected prime minister stated after the recent English elections that the health service would be changed very little.

Treatment of the Communists in Britain also surprised Dr. Timmerman. He felt that the British could keep better check on the Communists by giving them freedom to speak when and where they desired.

The speaker said he heard no war talk in England and on the Continent, except in American circles.

Dr. Timmerman also told Kiwanians that a general feeling prevailed in England and on the Continent was that America might provoke a war with Russia and that it would be fought in their frontyard.

Sokolsky's These Days

Now, according to Mr. Royall, it would even be wrong to foment or support revolution against the power that deliberately stole that country from its own people. Maybe, it would be sounder if we minded our own business about Poland and every other country, but that is not the proposition that faces us.

What we are told is that we must mind our own business about Poland, which has been conquered, but not about Cashmir, which has not yet been conquered by anybody, and not about Iran, which desires to run its own show to its own advantage.

The logic of that position is difficult to work out. Suppose Soviet Russia were to conquer Germany, as it has China, should we, according to Mr. Royall, mind our own business? If so, what are we doing in Korea?

I cannot help adding a footnote to all this. Mr. Kenneth Royall, in the same speech, also said: "Chinese Communism is not due to Russia, but rather to the groping of the Chinese people for some way out of their misery."

"As I see it, our principal hope is that the Chinese people themselves will swing away from Communism and toward a truly representative Democracy which can build up China and raise its standard of life. Perhaps trade between China and our own country might help."

This was spoken many months ago. Of course, it was as strong then as it is now. The United States suffered more than 100,000 casualties and nearly 20,000 dead, 8,000 by atrocities on prisoners of war, to prove it wrong. It was wrong in 1925 when Russia first attempted to conquer China through Communism.

European Tour Impression Cited In Talk Here

Impressions of a European tour last Summer were told to local Kiwanians Monday night.

Dr. Donald Timmerman, secretary of the Franklin County Council of Churches, made four surprising observations about the trip which took him to England and the Continent.

He found that the national health service program in Britain was not a British Labor Party measure, but an addition of a program started in 1911 with health insurance.

The present program came on a report of committee appointed by Winston Churchill's government in 1942. The newly-elected prime minister stated after the recent English elections that the health service would be changed very little.

Treatment of the Communists in Britain also surprised Dr. Timmerman. He felt that the British could keep better check on the Communists by giving them freedom to speak when and where they desired.

The speaker said he heard no war talk in England and on the Continent, except in American circles.

Dr. Timmerman also told Kiwanians that a general feeling prevailing in England and on the Continent was that America might provoke a war with Russia and that it would be fought in their front yard.

This was spoken many months ago. Of course, it was as wrong then as it is now. The United States suffered more than 100,000 casualties and nearly 20,000 dead, 8,000 by atrocities on prisoners of war, to prove it wrong. It was wrong in 1925 when Russia first attempted to conquer China through Communism.

Machines OK'd

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5—Franklin County commissioners have approved purchase of 700 voting machines over a five-year period. They plan to buy 125 machines in time for the 1952 general election.

Sokolsky's These Days

Now, according to Mr. Royall, it would even be wrong to foment or support revolution against the power that deliberately stole that country from its own people. Maybe, it would be sounder if we minded our own business about Poland and every other country, but that is not the proposition that faces us.

What we are told is that we must mind our own business about Poland, which has been conquered, but not about Cashmir, which has not yet been conquered by anybody, and not about Iran, which desires to run its own show to its own advantage.

The logic of that position is difficult to work out. Suppose Soviet Russia were to conquer Germany, as it has China, should we, according to Mr. Royall, mind our own business? If so, what are we doing in Korea?

I cannot help adding a footnote to all this. Mr. Kenneth Royall, in the same speech, also said: "Chinese Communism is not due to Russia, but rather to the groping of the Chinese people for some way out of their misery."

"As I see it, our principal hope is that the Chinese people themselves will swing away from Communism and toward a truly representative Democracy which can build up China and raise its standard of life. Perhaps trade between China and our own country might help."

This was spoken many months ago. Of course, it was as wrong then as it is now. The United States suffered more than 100,000 casualties and nearly 20,000 dead, 8,000 by atrocities on prisoners of war, to prove it wrong. It was wrong in 1925 when Russia first attempted to conquer China through Communism.
